Crossroads

my travels have brought me to the Crossroads of Life . . .
doubt and indecision pull at my feet,
hindering my steps.
behind me is Childhood . . .
calling me back with outstretched arms, asking me to play . . .
innocent children, dressed in white . . . laughing, mocking me because they haven't learned.
ahead is Adulthood . . .
dressed no longer in white and smelling of blood sweat metal . . .
He asks me to come work with him.
now i am alone,
the visions are gone,
but they remain in my mind . . .
screaming,
haunting me to choose between them.
. . . and the decision can only be mine.
but there are questions to be answered and achievements to be accomplished, before i choose.
. . . who am i really?
an actor hiding my true self behind a mask, sacrificing my beliefs for those of others . . .
to achieve success?
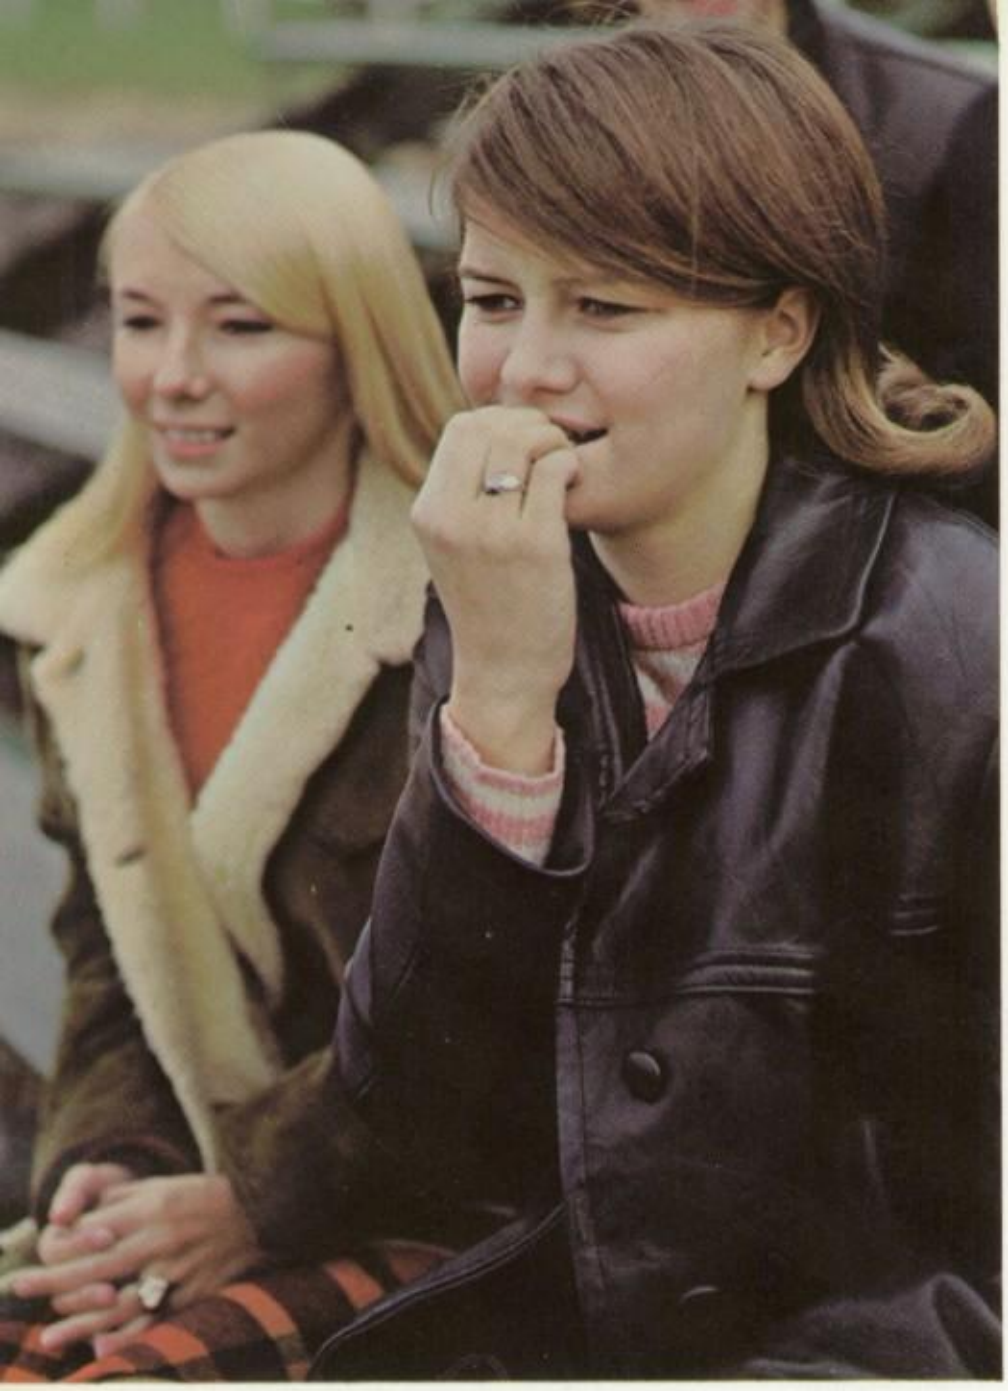
something inside me drives me on to be more than i am.
making a mental note, i will find out what it is.
Time lasts forever . . . when you're a child.
Death frightens me.
i can only pretend
it doesn't exist.
why can't i live forever?



i am scared of the world made for me.
the wars
the suffering
the competition
the complexities . . .
i don't want to face those things.
but Escape . . .
is only discovering how little i know.

far off somewhere, a train whistles in the pristine night, trying to make me more frustrated and alone.
acomplishing his aims, he moves on.

i have already conquered Childhood . . .
Adulthood—
i have not.
i have only observed, questioned . . .
now i will try to help.

School Life

As is a tale, so is life; not how long it is, but how good it is, is what matters.

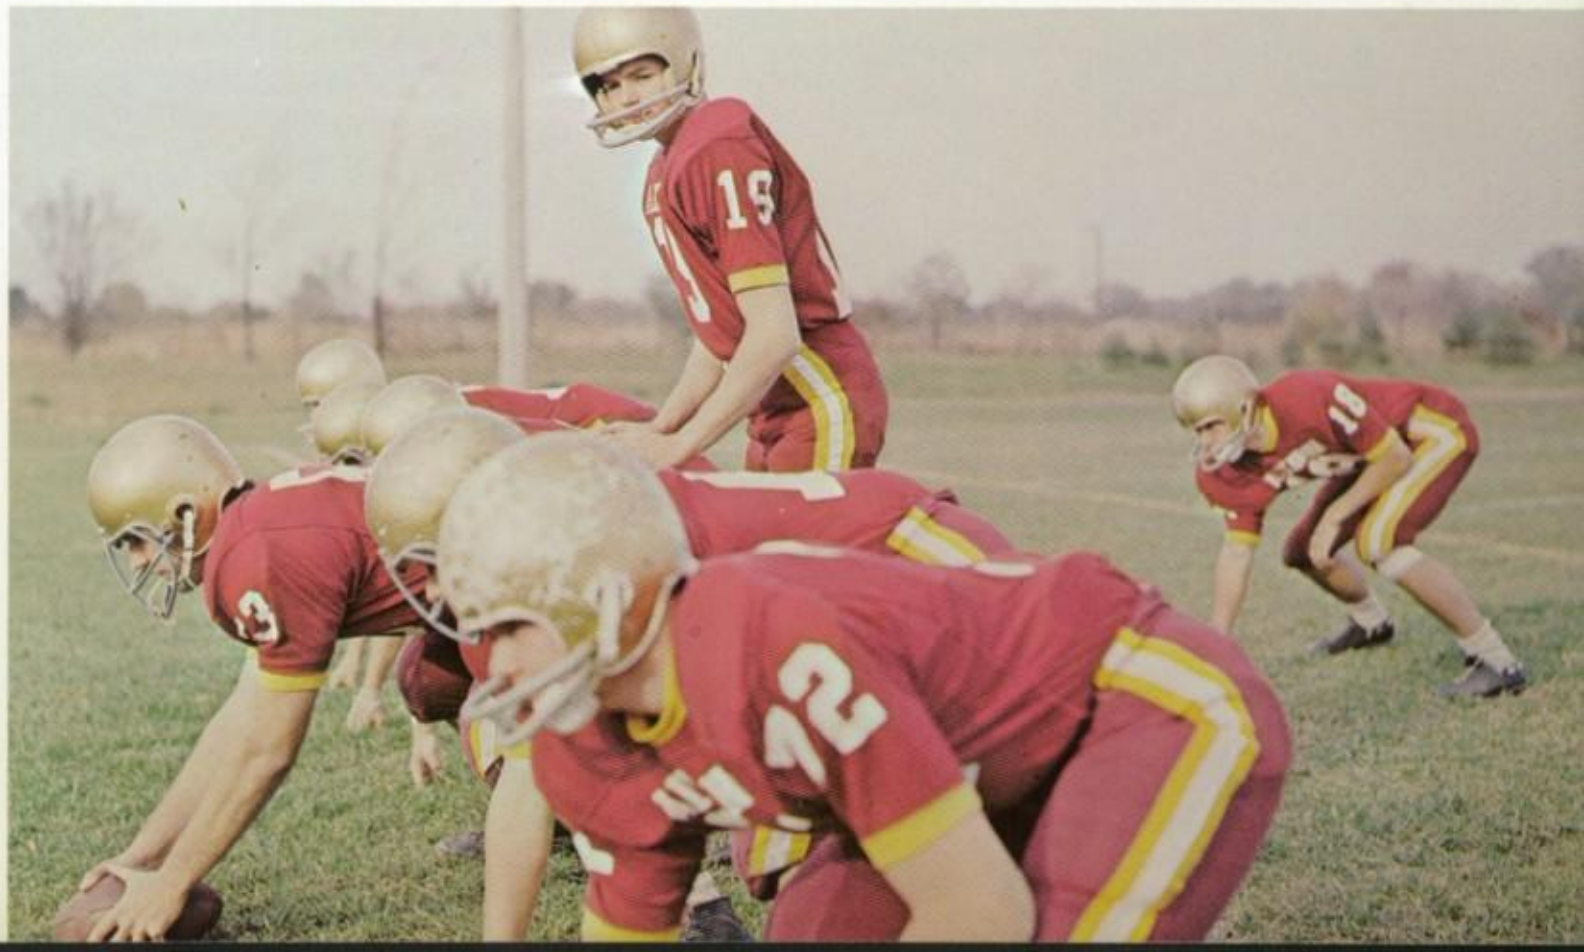
Lucius Annaeus Seneca

The "good life" at AMHS carries on

"Jill, you'll never become Bette Davis if you can't even read those lines!" Connie Sherwood seems to be telling Jill Marston.

The Girls' Chorus, under the direction of Ernest Hostetler, expresses its talents in the field of music.

Greg Fisher, like all good quarterbacks, checks his line before calling signals.



after school

"You know, a change in routine is nice once in a while," says Gary King to Betty Ryan at the 1968 Homecoming Dance.

LuAnn Sigler and Tim Johnson agree that taking the long way home through the park is a good way to spend a lazy autumn afternoon.

Whether we admit it or not, school is the center of almost all our activities. We rotate around its challenges and opportunities, striving for improvement in some small way. This is surely the "Good Life."

With the many activities offered to the student of AMHS, it is possible for him to choose his field of interest and to excel in it. This makes for a better person and a better school.

In a sense, the four years spent at AMHS are a short lifetime in themselves. The extra-curricular activities of the school offer opportunities to display talents and skills. From the thrilling competition of sports to the pride of mastering a dramatic line or the offering of a beautiful rendition of a tender love song sung by the Senior Ensemble, AMHS offers a chance for expression and an open door to success.

Hearts grow warm as we remember

Many colored lights, soft music, and pretty girls with handsome dates set the mood for the 1968 Junior-Senior Prom—"Carousel." Billboards, the carousel, a bandstand, a queen's throne, and tiny carousels on each table were the main attractions of the evening, which was highlighted by the crowning of Betsy Johnson as 1968 Prom Queen. The Mellow Moods and Beth Beigh provided the music, as Beth serenaded the Prom-goers with the theme from "Carousel," "If I Loved You."

The long-awaited evening passed much too quickly as the many hours spent decorating, and discussing problems all melted away as the proud Juniors entertained the Seniors at "Carousel." Through many hours of hard work, the class of "1969" presented one of the best Proms ever at Alexandria-Monroe High School.

Adding enjoyment to the evening was Beth Beigh, singing "If I Loved You."

It looks as though Senior Class President Kim Walker enjoyed his job as he presented Queen Betsy Johnson with a dozen red roses.

"Carousel"

Jim Hodge puts the finishing touches on the center of attention at the 1968 Junior-Senior Prom.

The highlight of the evening was the crowning of Betsy Johnson as 1968 Prom Queen. Standing beside her are her attendants, Mary Beth Montcastle and Frances Cox.

"Do you suppose we could be doing it backwards?" Jenny Kane wondered, as Mary Jane Schaffer and Debbie Skaggs helped assemble the backdrop for "Carousel."

Queen Debbie Skaggs reigned over

Marsha Johnson, Debbie Riggs, Becky Bodenhorn, Queen Debbie Skaggs, Melody Gilman, Brynda Eagle, Kathy Clark

All the weeks of preparation at AMHS proved well worth the effort. "Homecoming 68" was truly an all around success.

The parade of club and class cars began the festivities with girls and multi-colored flowers taking the spotlight.

The sound of the official's whistle brought the football game to a start as our Tigers went on to defeat Taylor 26 to 6, for its first homecoming win in 5 years.

On Saturday evening, couples celebrated the victory at the 1968 Homecoming Dance, "London Love," which saw vivacious Debbie Skaggs crowned Queen.

As "London Love" came to an end, misty-eyed dancers said good-bye to what was truly a weekend to remember.

1968 Homecoming Queen Debbie Skaggs

homecoming weekend

These Tiger substitutes are eagerly awaiting their chance to take part in the 26-6 homecoming victory over Taylor.

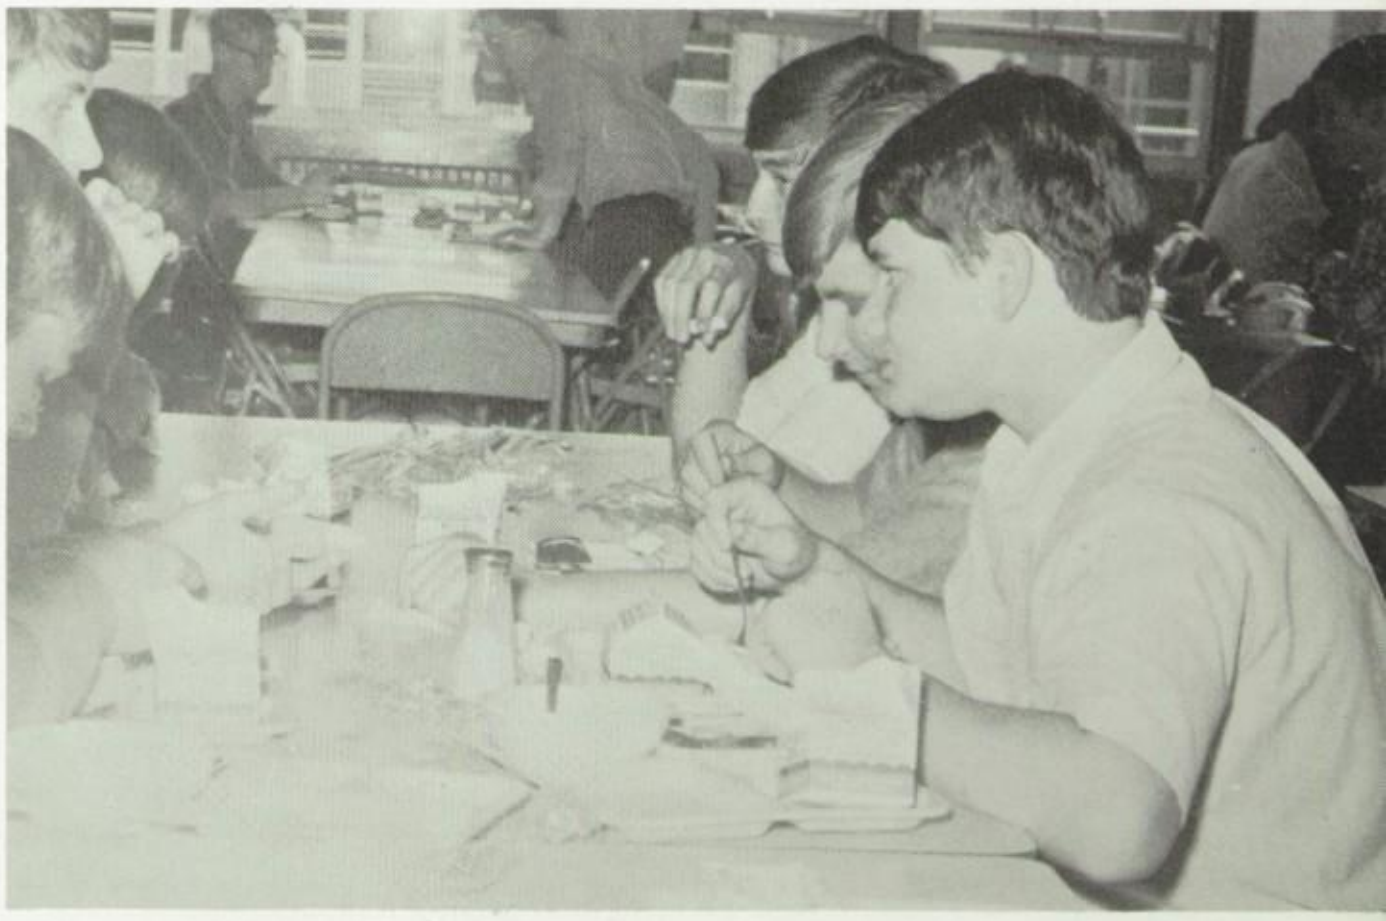
Missy Miller and Jenny Kane incite the enthusiasm of the crowd as the Tigers score again.

Mr. Rossow and the Tiger band members make a last check of their winning entry in the club division of the homecoming parade.

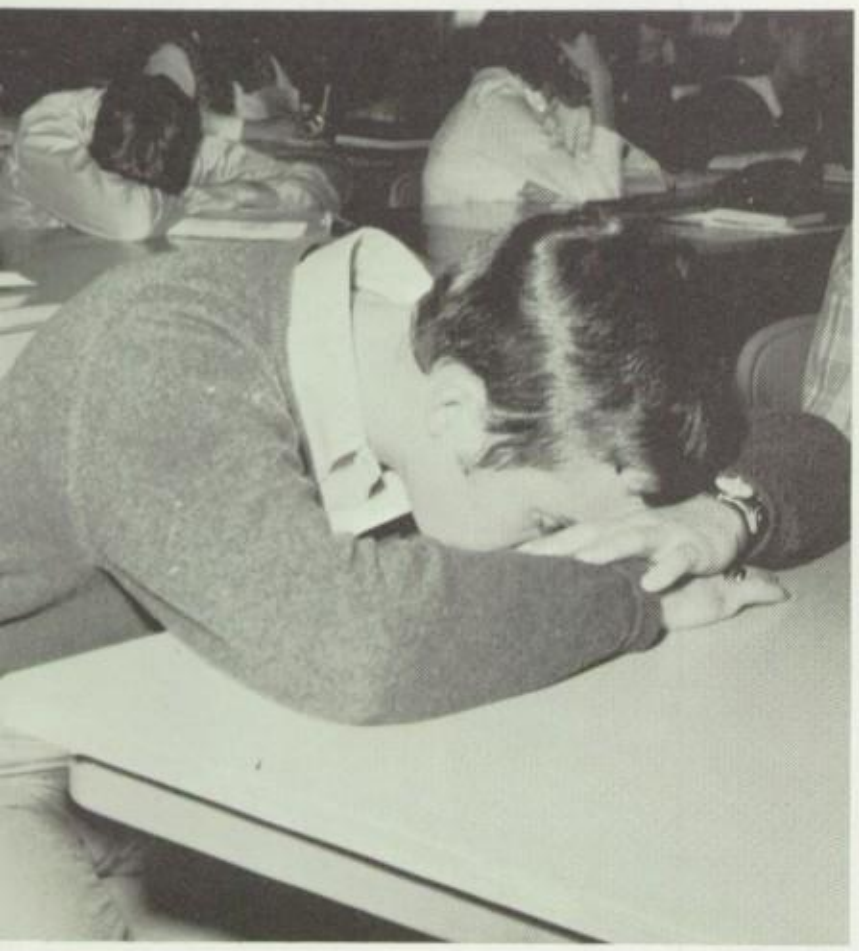
"That's really what happened?" inquires Beth Beigh of Donnie Adams as Debbie Howard laughingly looks on.

Special friendships add lasting memories to an ordinary school day as proven by Debbie Miller and Alan Etchison.

A look into the everyday life of the school



A little after dinner chat gives the students of AMHS a relaxing moment.



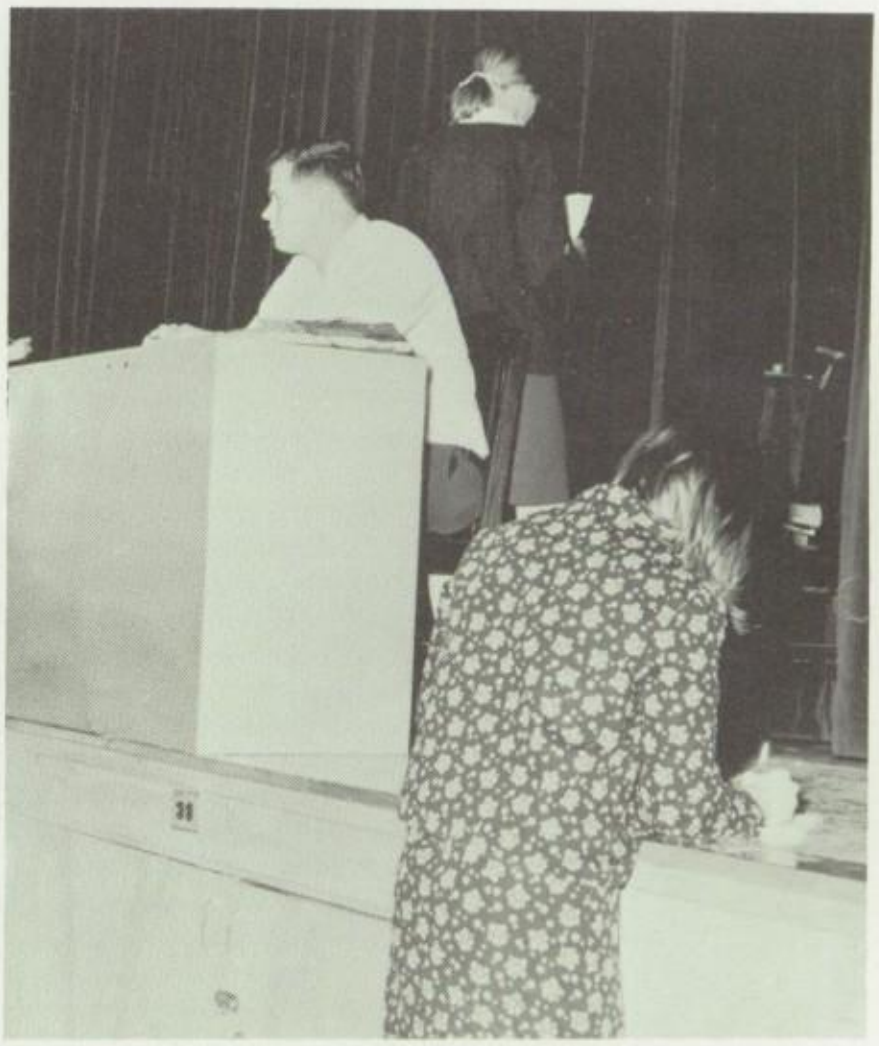
Wake up Jim, the school's on fire!

"Not in my bag you don't!" says Randy Murphy as Rick Gillespie eludes Tom Spreen's prying fingers.

"A little nonsense now and then is relished by the wisest men."

The little everyday happenings that so frequently dot our school days are what we will cherish most as we look back at the fun of high school. The time the speech class took up money to help pay for an overdue library book . . . a quick trip to the locker when there was no time . . . sneaking down to the bookstore for a quick, prohibited Pepsi and getting caught by a teacher. These were moments known by all students.

Pulling the fire alarm at five minutes till three to get home a little earlier . . . the secret delight of standing on the stage for the first time . . . these memories have already become priceless. They are part of life at school, as well as learning, and they will continue to add to the total picture of high school as long as students are human.



Two more students pay the penalty in Mr. Morehead's study hall.

Spirit and Warmth abound throughout the Tiger Band members retreat from the track after their award-winning routine on Band Day competition at the State Fair.

It's common knowledge in Tiger country that people take notice whenever our ferocious Tiger mascot appears.

Students at AMHS around Christmas time often find themselves engaged in activities other than schoolwork. Mrs. Baumgartner's third period speech class is shown decorating a Christmas tree.

school year

"Friends, Romans, Countrymen: Have a grape!" says Stan Thompson to Katie Cox and Jackie Andrew.

Moments of despair are shared by these Tiger fans at one of the many close basketball games during the season.

Spirit is defined as that vivacity or ardor possessing an individual.

An abundance of spirit and warmth is found scattered throughout AMHS. The spirit of football season, hayrides, bonfires . . . sectional week when our spirit reaches a climax. We remember tangible spring, and a glorious night called the Prom, the inability to sit through the final notes of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" without being moved, the warmth in a certain smile—all these reveal the best moments of our high school years.

Where there is spirit there is warmth, and where there is warmth, there is people.

Extra-curricular activities complete our day

Linsey Braun certainly knows her business and shows it as she lends her musical ability to the hard-working Senior Ensemble.

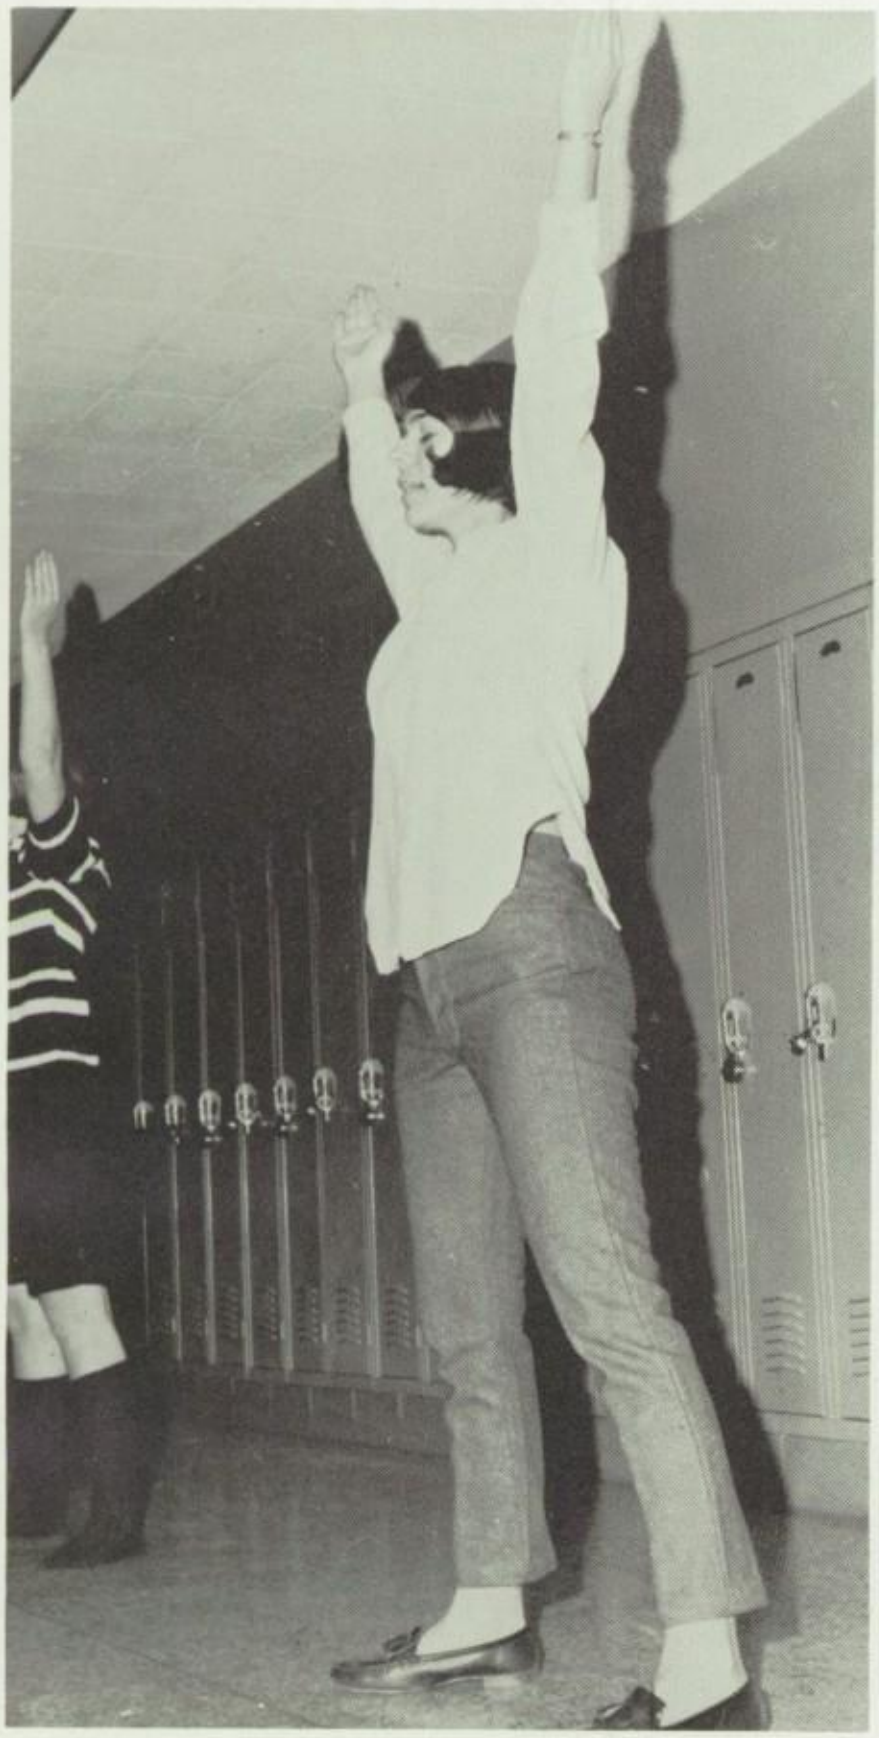
The first step in pushing for another Tiger victory is bursting the "hoop".

One of the rewarding duties of being a basketball manager is folding the team jerseys as demonstrated by varsity manager Brad Wilson.

Extra-curricular activities gave AMHS students an opportunity to pursue individual interests outside the classroom. Future dramatists designed scenery and rehearsed lines for school plays, I.R.C. members learned about other nations while preparing for the Model U.N., physical fitness was stressed by G.A.A. through gymnastic stunts, and basketball players developed their prowess during after school hours.

Walking down the hall after school one could see members of Cheerleaders Club painting posters to arouse spirit for a Tiger victory or hear music drifting from the bandroom, as capable musicians strived for their best.

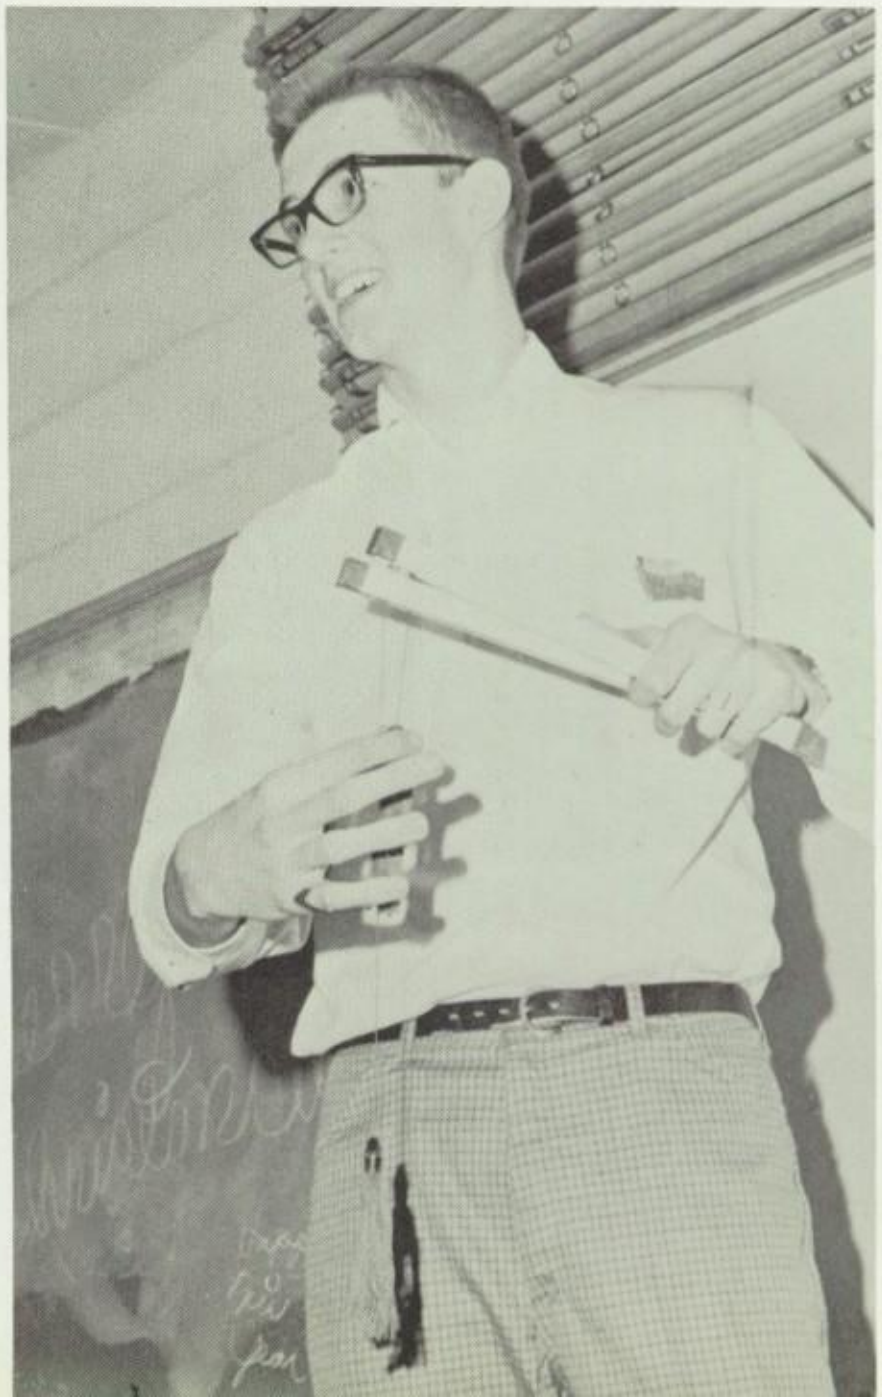
As more than one famous author has said, extra curricular activities break the monotony of the student's classical, scholarly education.

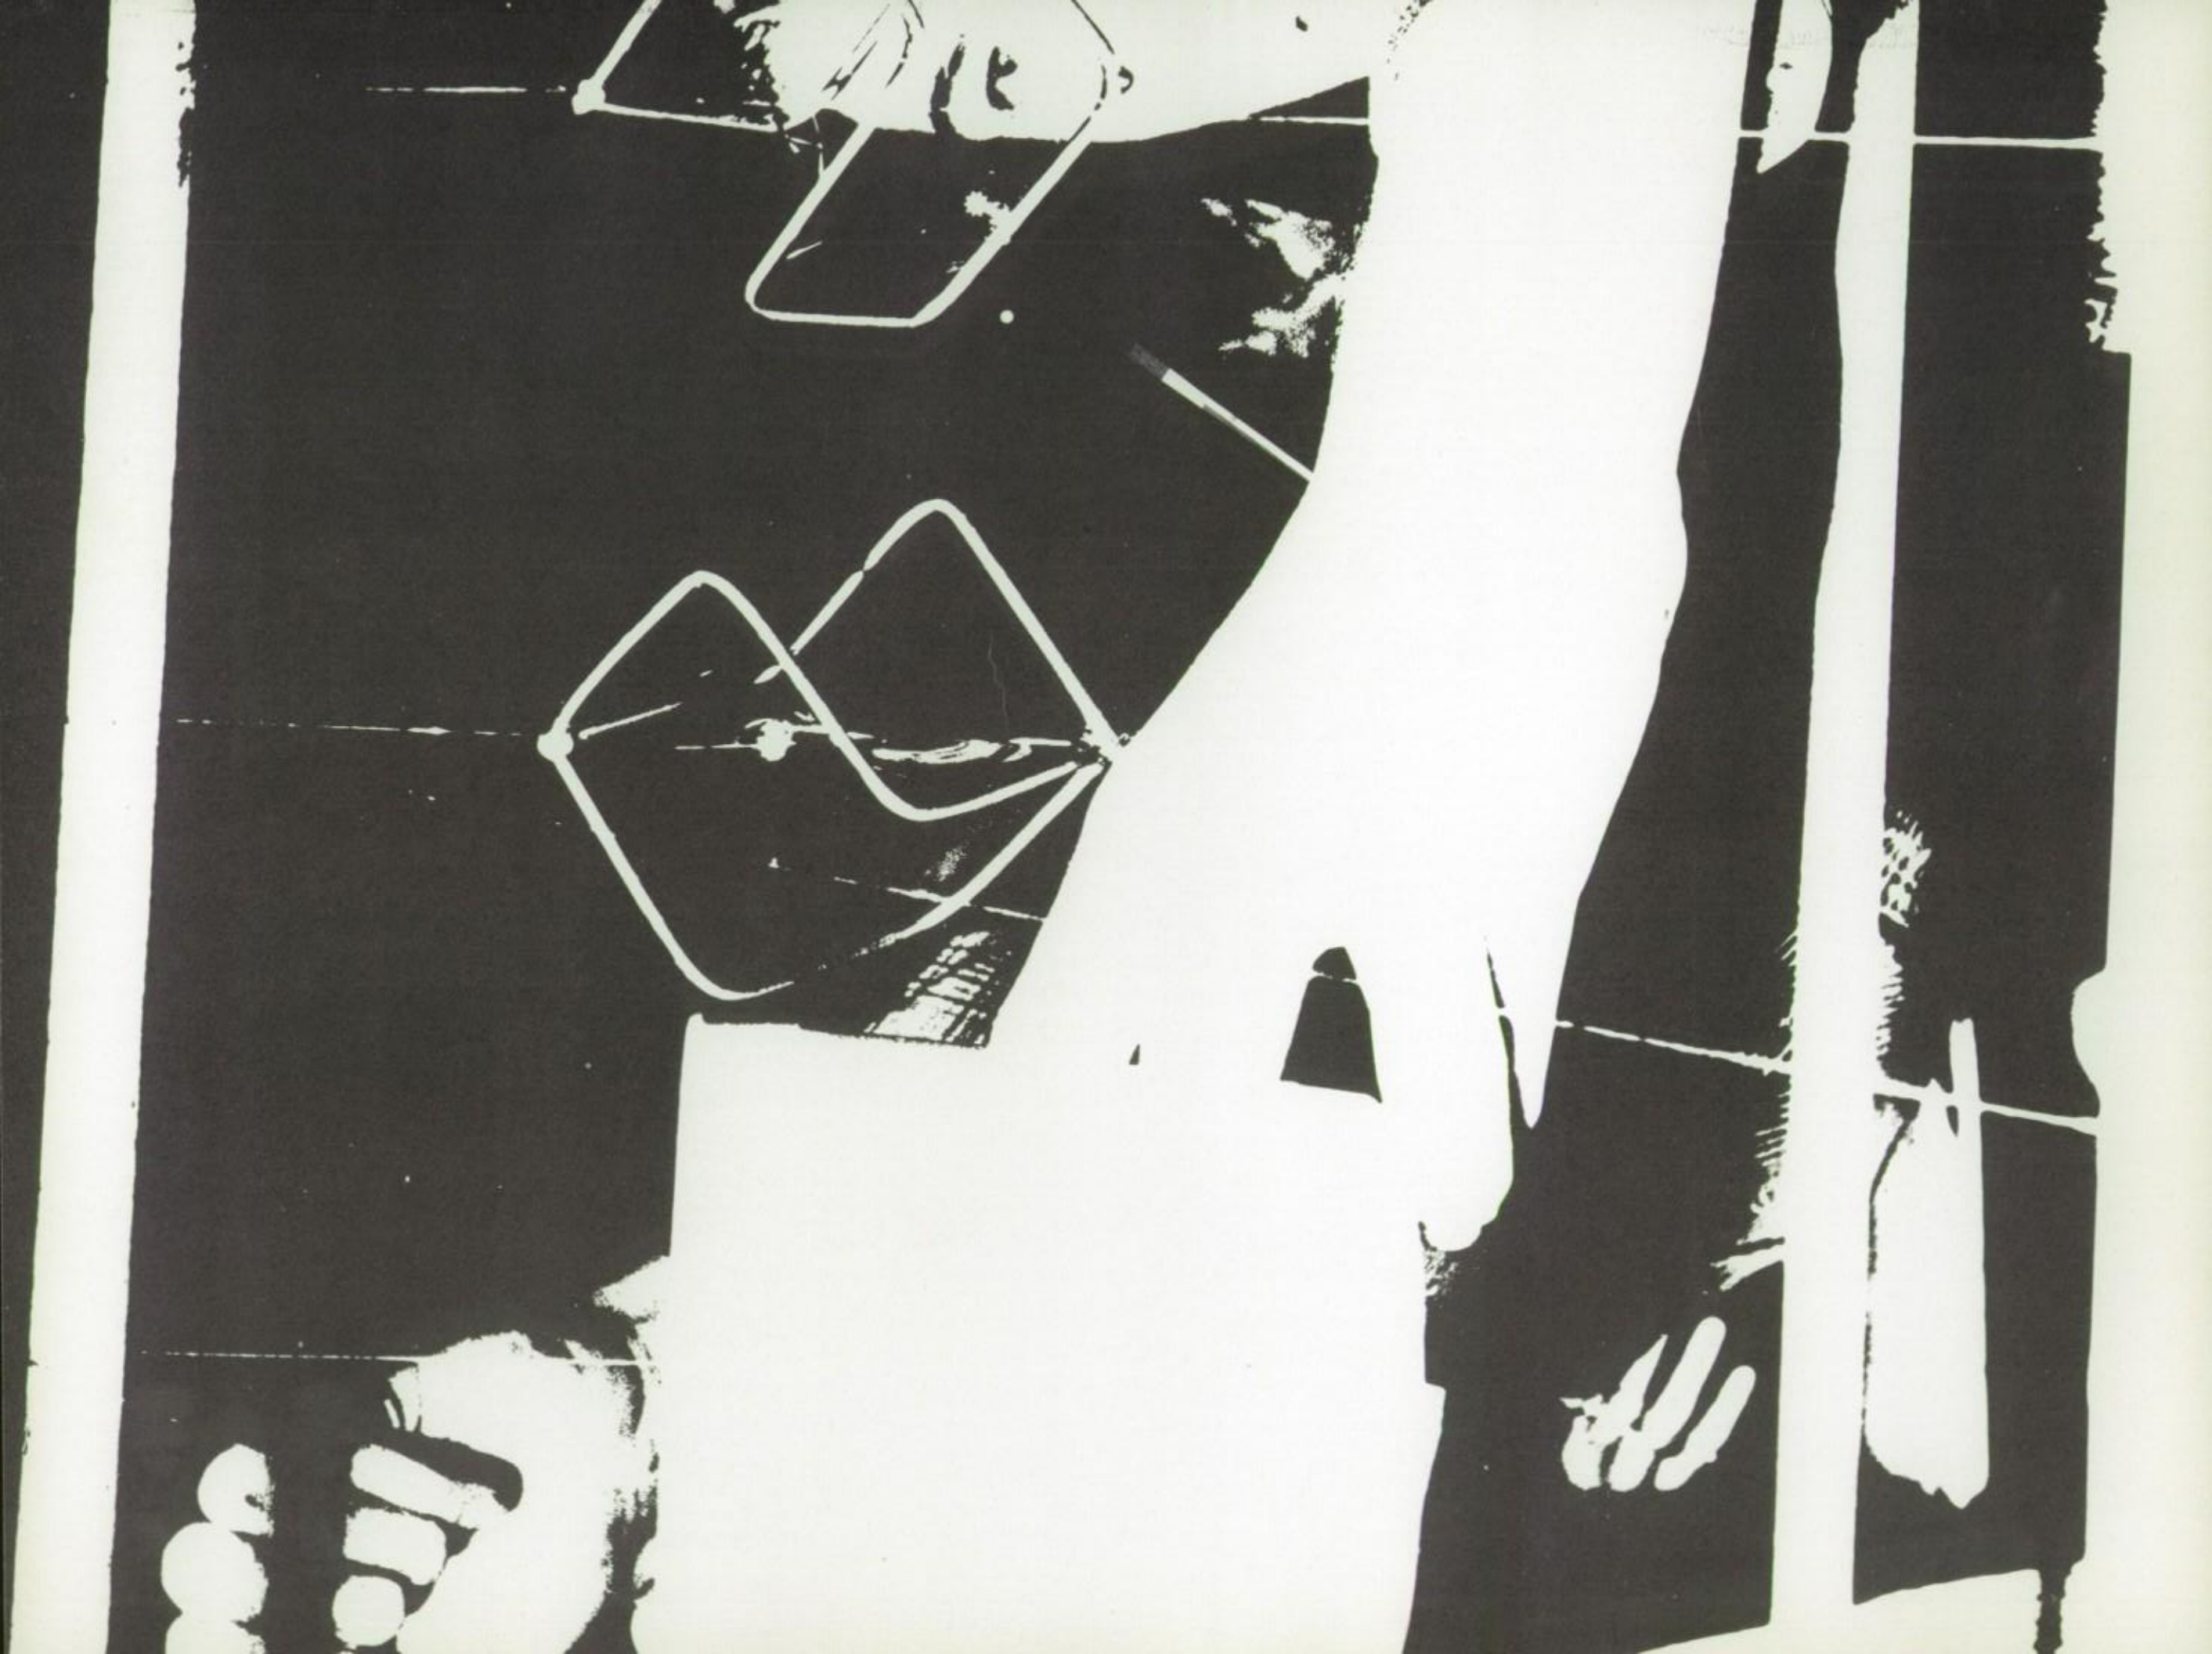


"Let's get this over with you guys, I'm pooped!" seems to be Nancilee Jones' plea as the spirited B-team cheerleaders practice for perfection.

This group of talented singers is none other than the promising Senior Ensemble, shown here at one of the numerous club gatherings at which they were invited to perform.

Performing one of his magical feats, Steve Heifner finds even himself baffled.



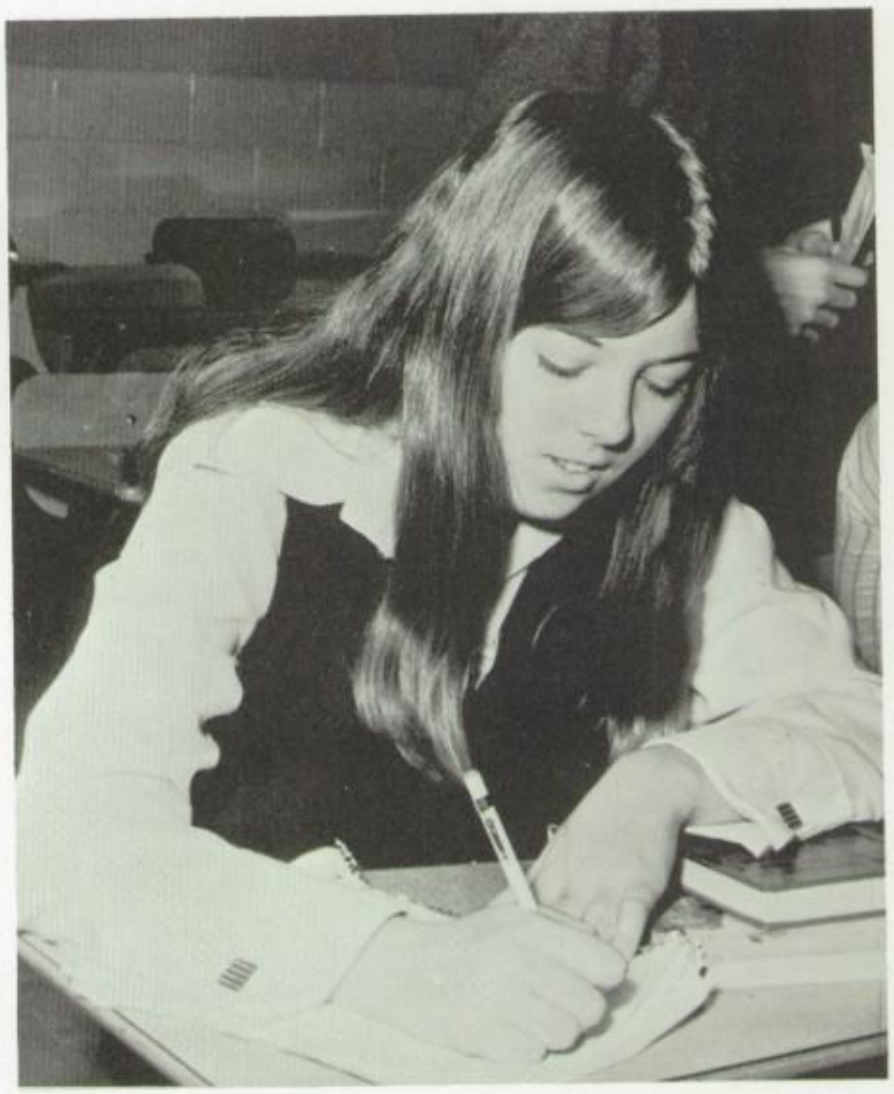


Academics

I will study and get ready and perhaps my time will come.
Abraham Lincoln

Indoctrinating freshmen into the world of term papers is the role of the library.

A pleasant expression and good posture blend together a perfect plus for Debby Riggs in Speech class.



Kathy Donahue is slowly but surely acquiring the skills and techniques of writing in Mrs. Baumgartner's English class.

The art of communic

Enabling students to gain mastery of their native language is the goal of the English Department. It strives to instill in the student correct grammar and word usage. The basic fundamentals of English, which the student has learned in his first eight years of school, are developed more fully so that the student can speak and write with confidence.

At AMHS the student is required to take at least three years of English. The classics in the literary field are also included, as each student has one semester of English and one semester of Literature each year. The student also learns to appreciate the literature of other countries by studying their best authors.

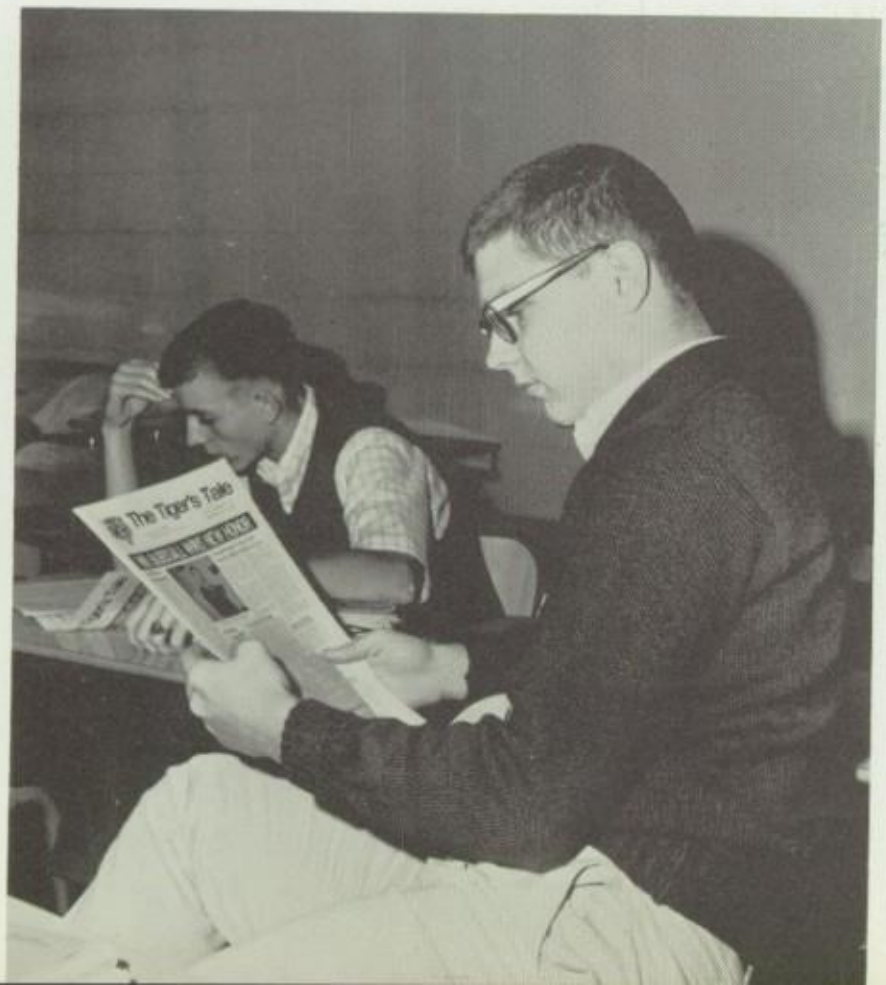
One semester classes of Journalism and Speech are also offered to Juniors and Seniors who wish to enhance their method of communication.

Since English is required in college and its proper use is imperative for getting a job, it is one of the most important subjects a student has in his high school career. We at AMHS are fortunate to have such a fine English Department giving us the essential background needed for our future.

Now get serious Mark, English certainly can't be that humorous. At least Jeff Johnson and Tom Muey don't think so!

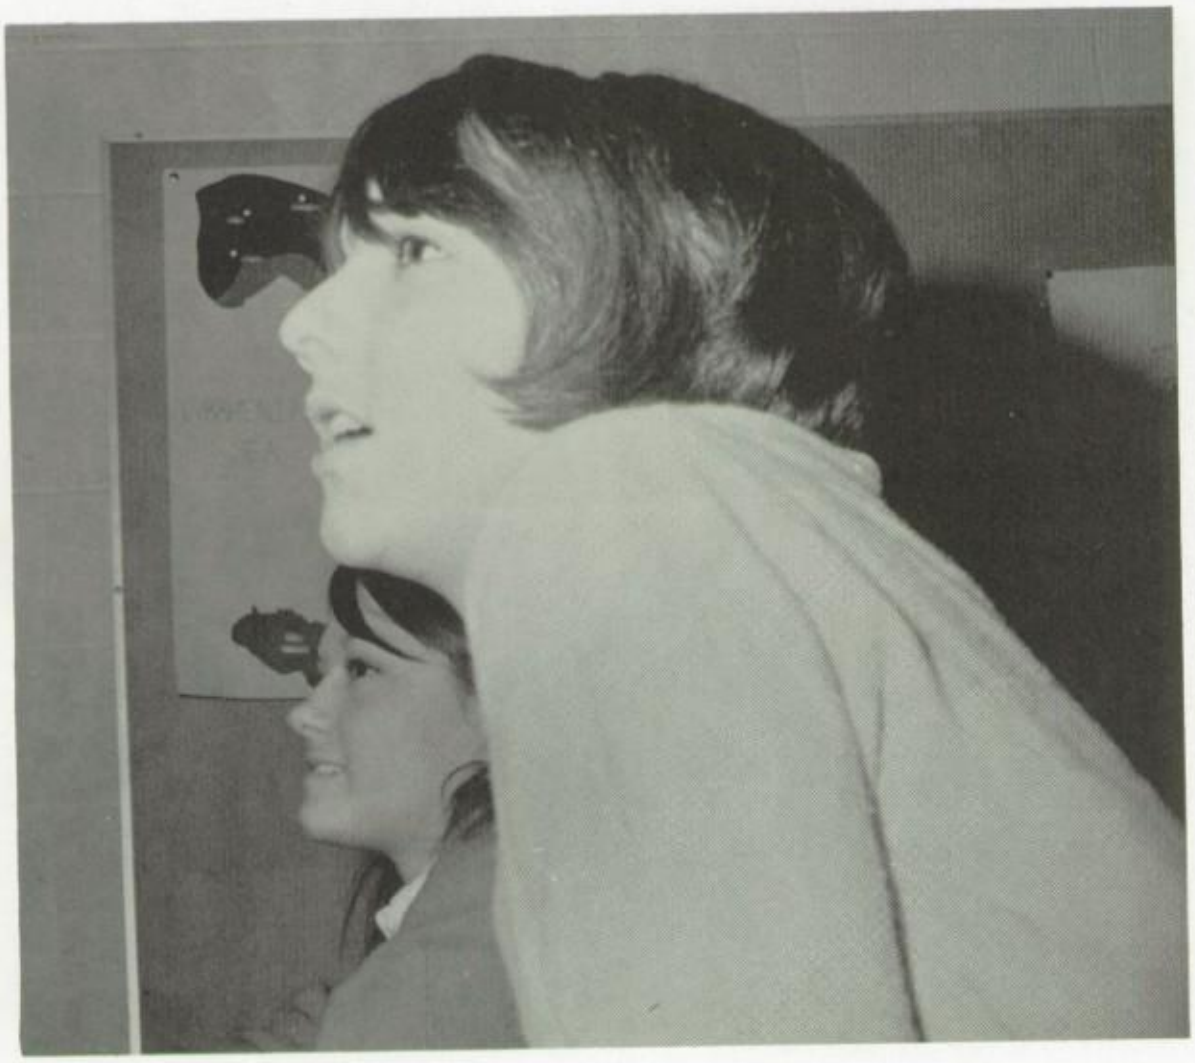
ation is stressed in English Department

It's hot off of the press! Dave Hahn seems to have found an interesting article in the Tiger's Tale.



Reaping the rewards is the best part of any project, and Tiger's Tale staff members Linda Puckett, Barbara Foster, and Debbie Skaggs would probably agree as they count the money earned in that day's sale.

Latin and French take us miles away



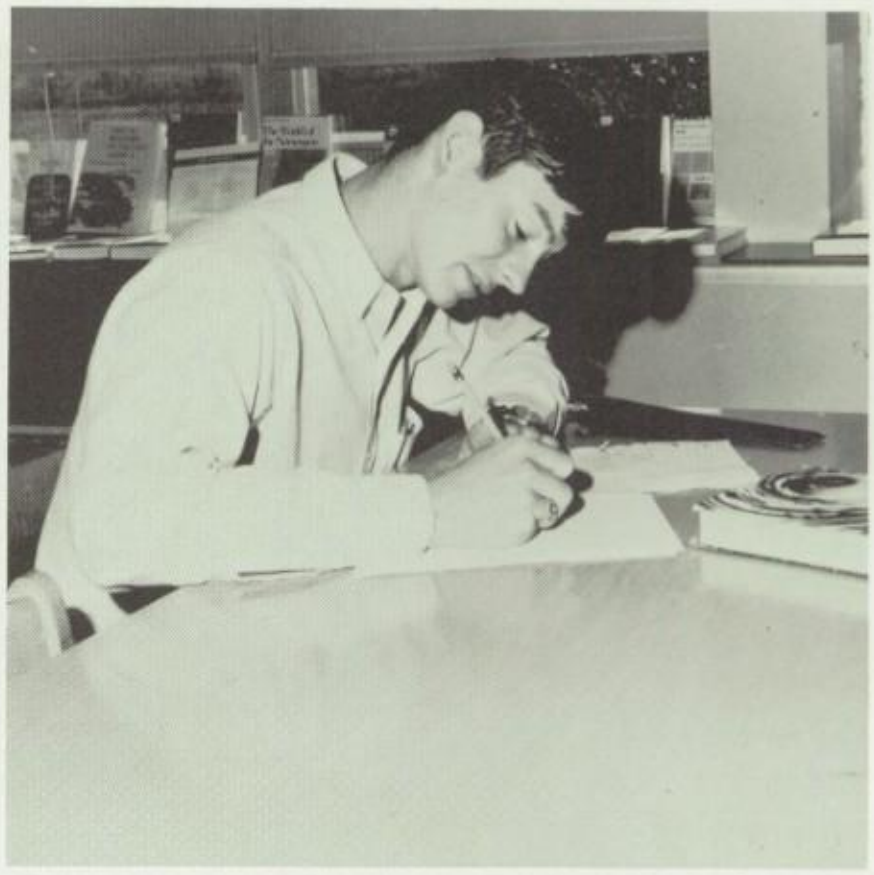
Tonya Warner seems to be hanging on to every captivating French word Mrs. Bunner is probably saying at this moment!

French and Latin were the two courses offered this year in the Foreign Language Department. These two languages complemented the high school student's background of the English language, its uses, and meanings. These languages also offered historic background information of France and Italy.

Latin clearly pointed out the history of many words in the English language. Besides helping the English student, Latin gave future doctors and nurses a beginning to the many hard years of study in that subject ahead. Latin also showed how the Roman culture relates to the American culture.

French presented the students of AMHS with a better understanding of the French-speaking countries and their relationship to our country. French, like Latin, also provided many root words from which English words can be derived. Learning the basic fundamentals of French is only a stepping stone to new horizons of the French language.

Latin Club initiates also find themselves performing during the school day. Laurel Lewis is putting on quite a good show!



"This one won't be too bad," says Lee Sparks, finding the library an ideal place to make up a Trigonomotry test.

Carol Brenner finds this mathematical triangle helpful in solving an angle problem on the board.

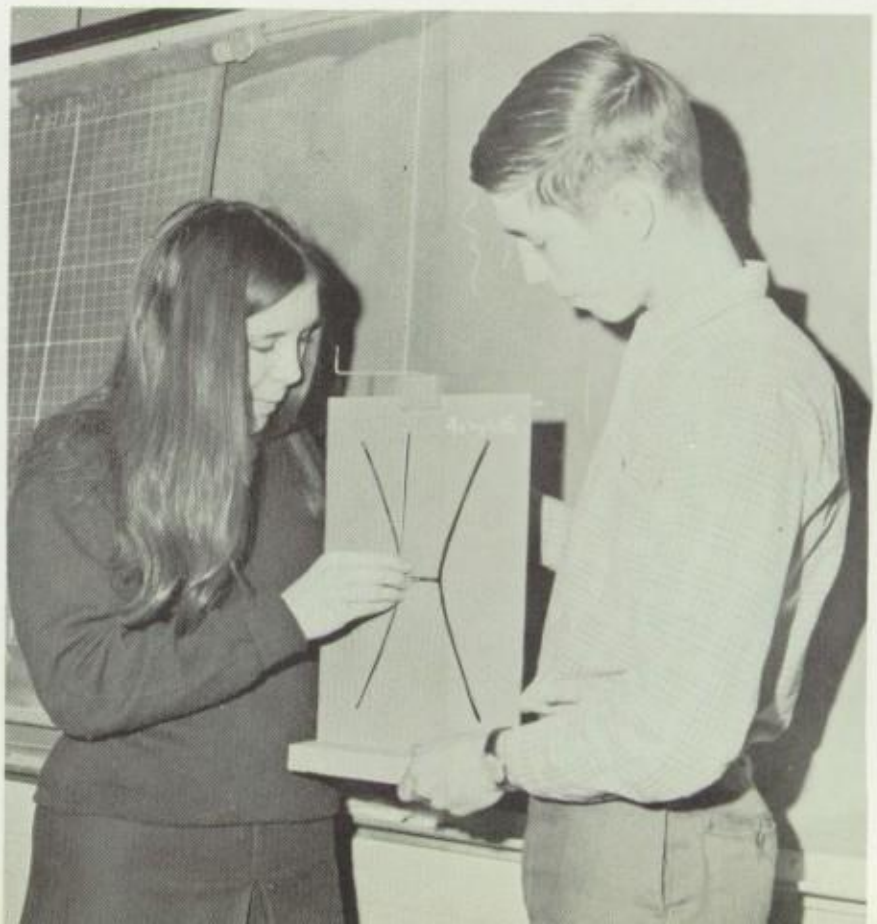
Mathematics provides a challenge

The Mathematics Department at AMHS adequately meets the needs of an ever-expanding student body.

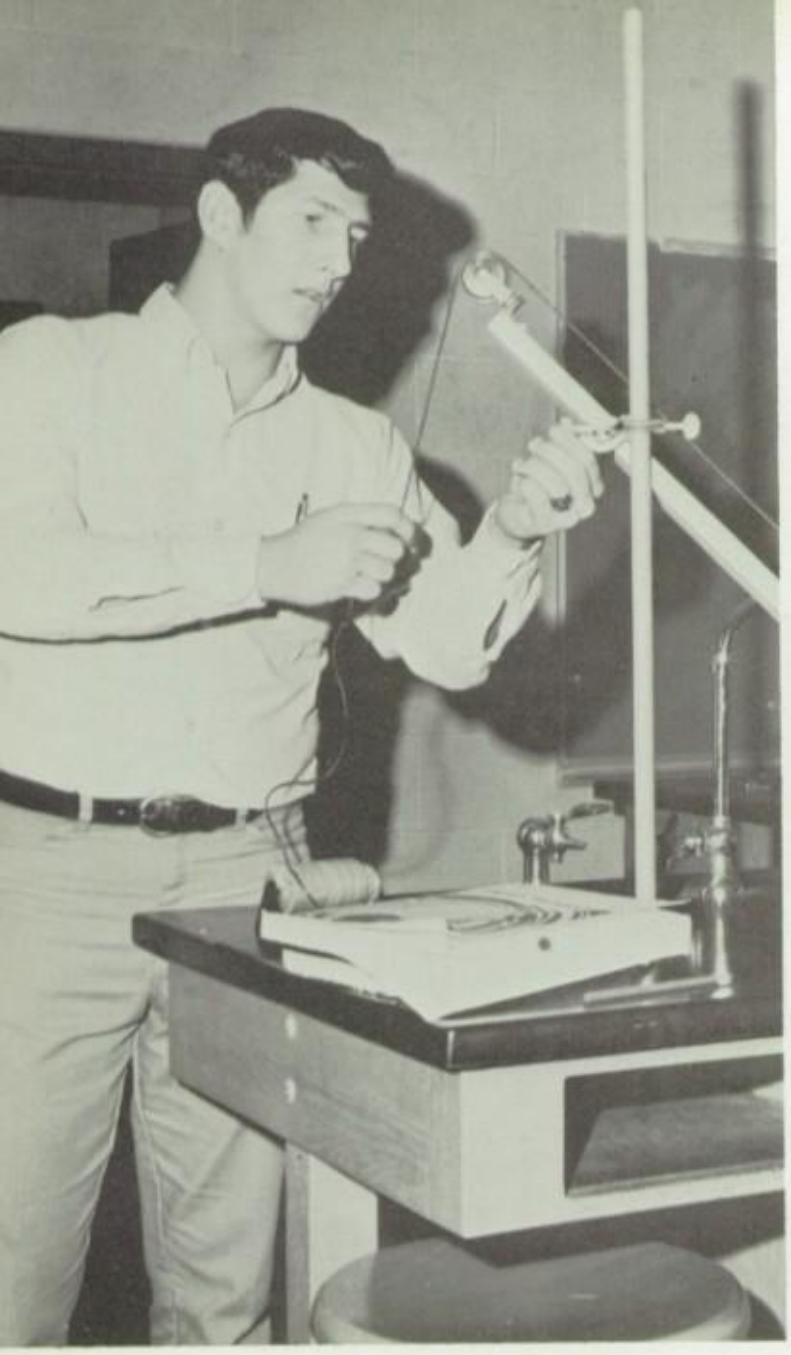
For the student who plans a vocation, General Mathematics supplies him with the basic necessities to help him further his aims. A basic knowledge of addition and subtraction helps the student no matter what field he plans to pursue.

For the student planning on college, a long four years of math await him. His freshman year, the student will meet the variables and exponents of first year Algebra, and the theorems and postulates of Sophomore geometry will bear heavily on his mind. As the second year of Algebra dawns his Junior year with its equations, logarithms and quadratic formulae. New this year for seniors is a two-part year of math. The first semester, Trigonometry and its functions will dominate his third periods. The second semester he will wander into the world of analytic Geometry.

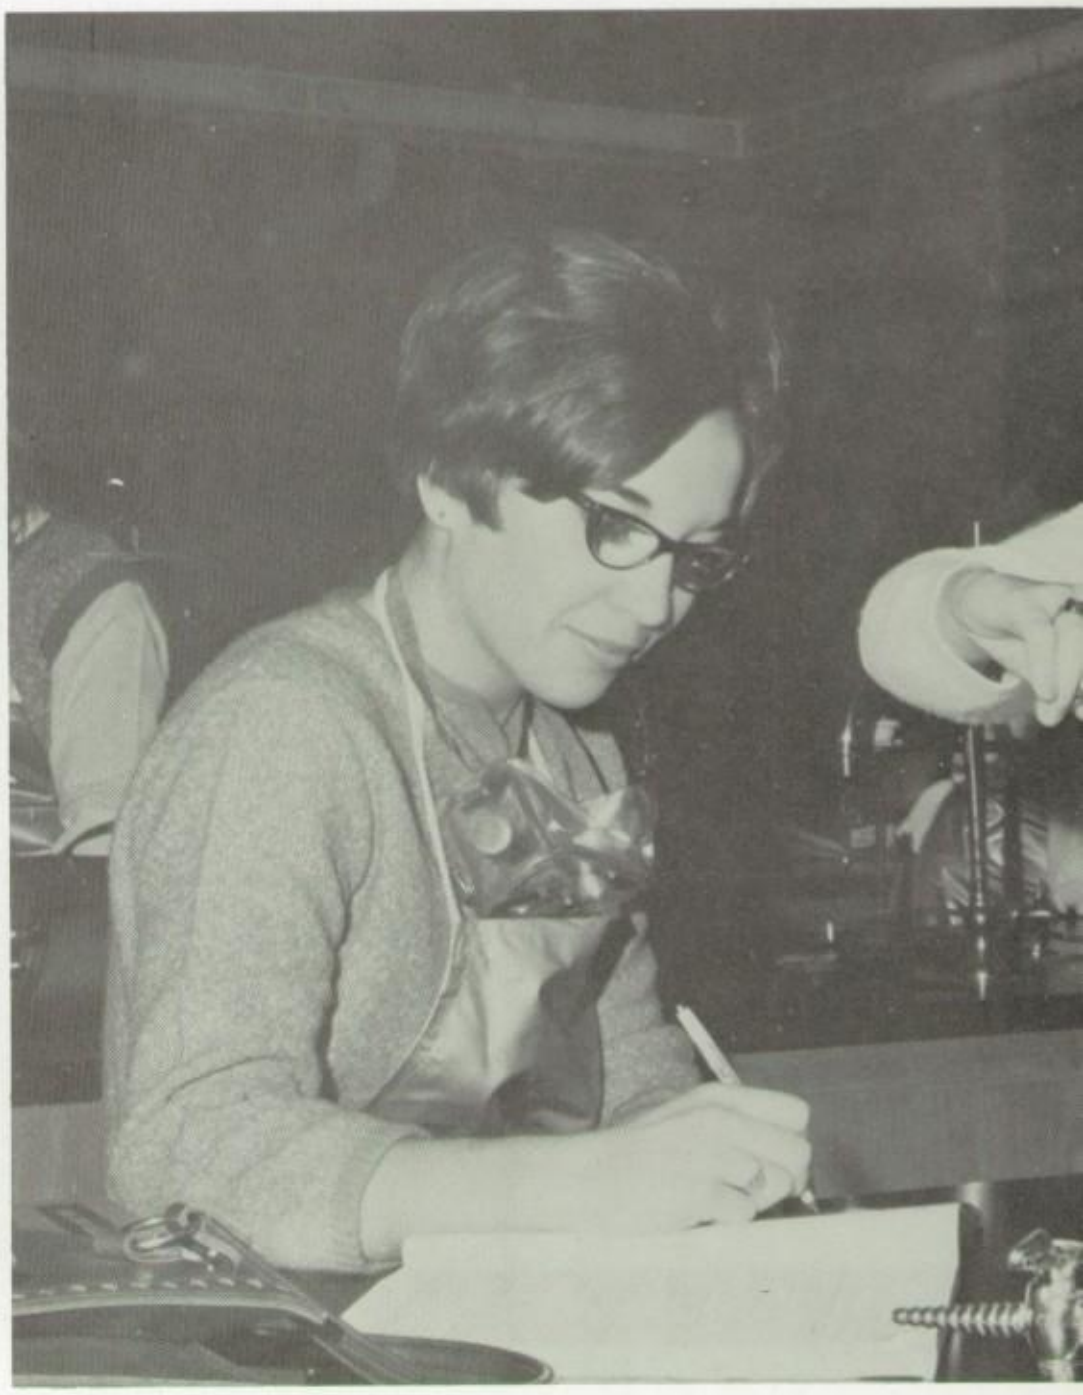
Diane Rohn and Phil Prophet tax their brains and solve another difficult problem.



Science induces students'



"No matter how many times I try I still get over 100% efficiency," complains Chris Jacobs in Physics class as he performs a difficult experiment.



Linda Starr and Cathy Garner gain valuable scientific knowledge by means of a Chemistry class experiment.

"Listen Rick, Werner Von Braun you aren't!" teases Dan Gosnell to Rick Martin.

creative minds

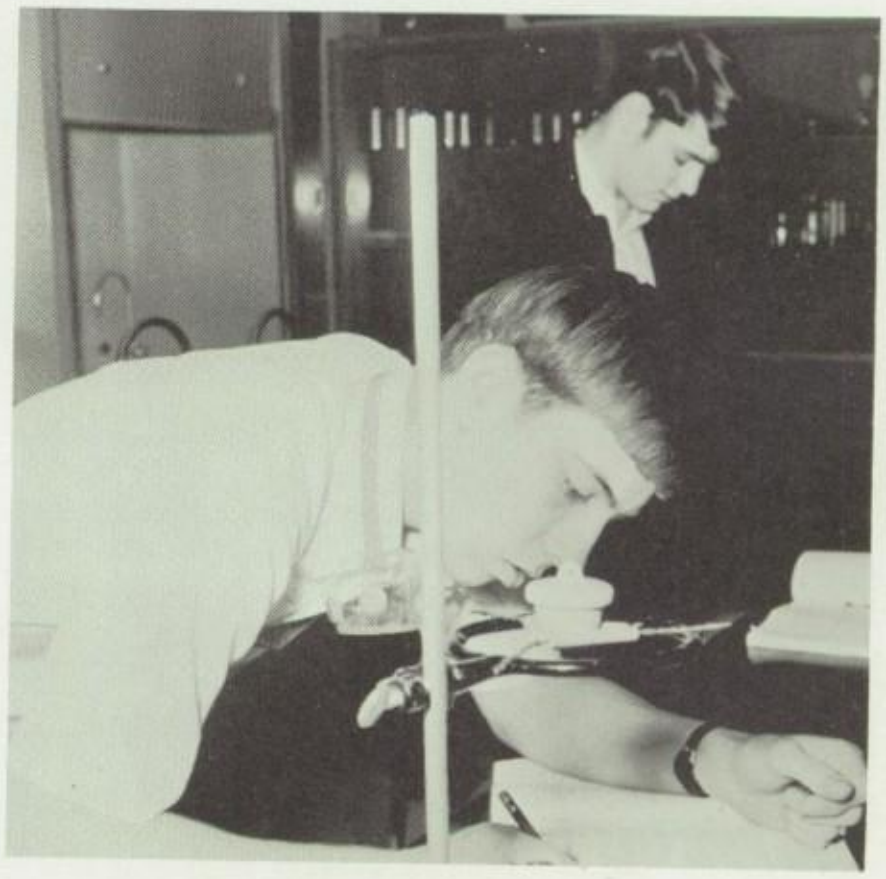
Remembering the past and keeping an eye to the future, Science marches on. To keep in step with this ever-changing world, a Science department must continually encourage the inquisitive minds of young people. They must be trained to look beyond to those matters left to them for discovery.

It is up to the teachers of any Science department to bring out this inquisitive nature in their students. We are very lucky at AMHS to have science teachers willing to be responsible for the growth of the students' scientific minds.

For most Freshman students, biology brings into view that dreaded horizon known as dissection. Later, as Juniors and Seniors, Chemistry, Physics, and Physical Science, challenge the students for further development in Science.

Science is the building block of this world, and possibly whatever lies beyond.

Shown dutifully writing down the latest result of a Chemistry experiment is Dan Guilkey.



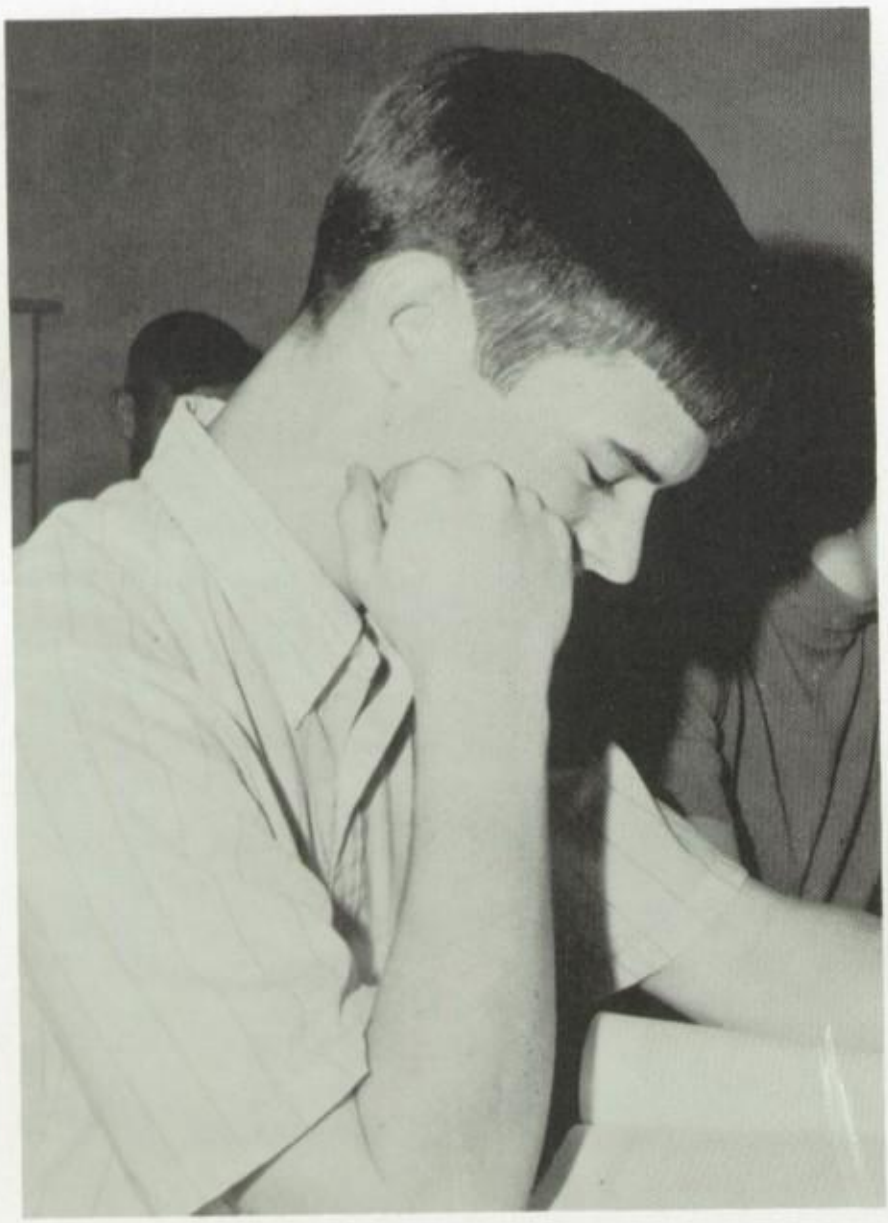
Tom Skroback appears image-like as he works intensely with his bunsen burner in first period Chemistry class.

Current events shape the year

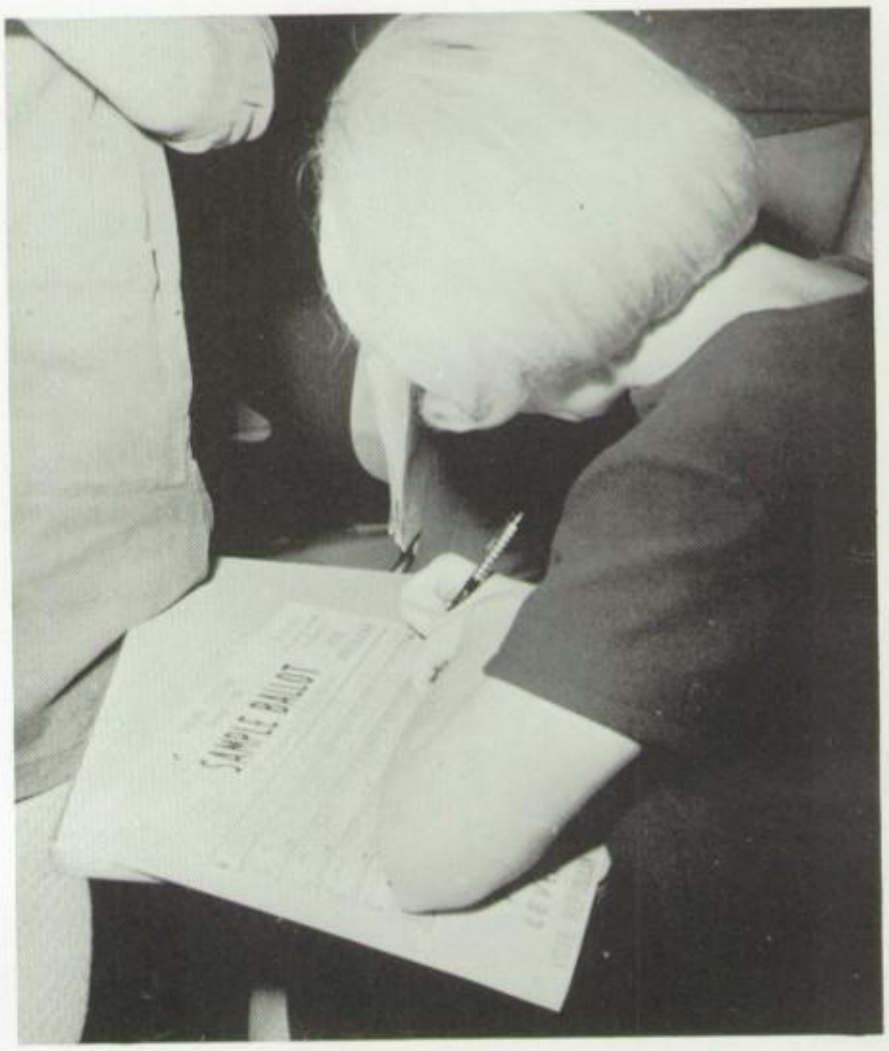
Our Social-Science Department deals with the study of man. It includes World History, American history, Civics, Psychology, Economics, American Neighbors, and World Geography.

The development of world governments is explained in Civics class. Members of the Civics classes took the responsibility of being in charge of the mock presidential elections held in November. To achieve a better understanding of ourselves and others is taught in Psychology. Civics and Psychology are offered only to seniors, who must pass them in order to graduate. Our country's financial standing is explained in a one semester course of Economics. The study of man's evolution and nature's past and present is taught in History classes, World Geography, and American Neighbors.

We should appreciate the Social-Science Department for the greater understanding it has given us about mankind.

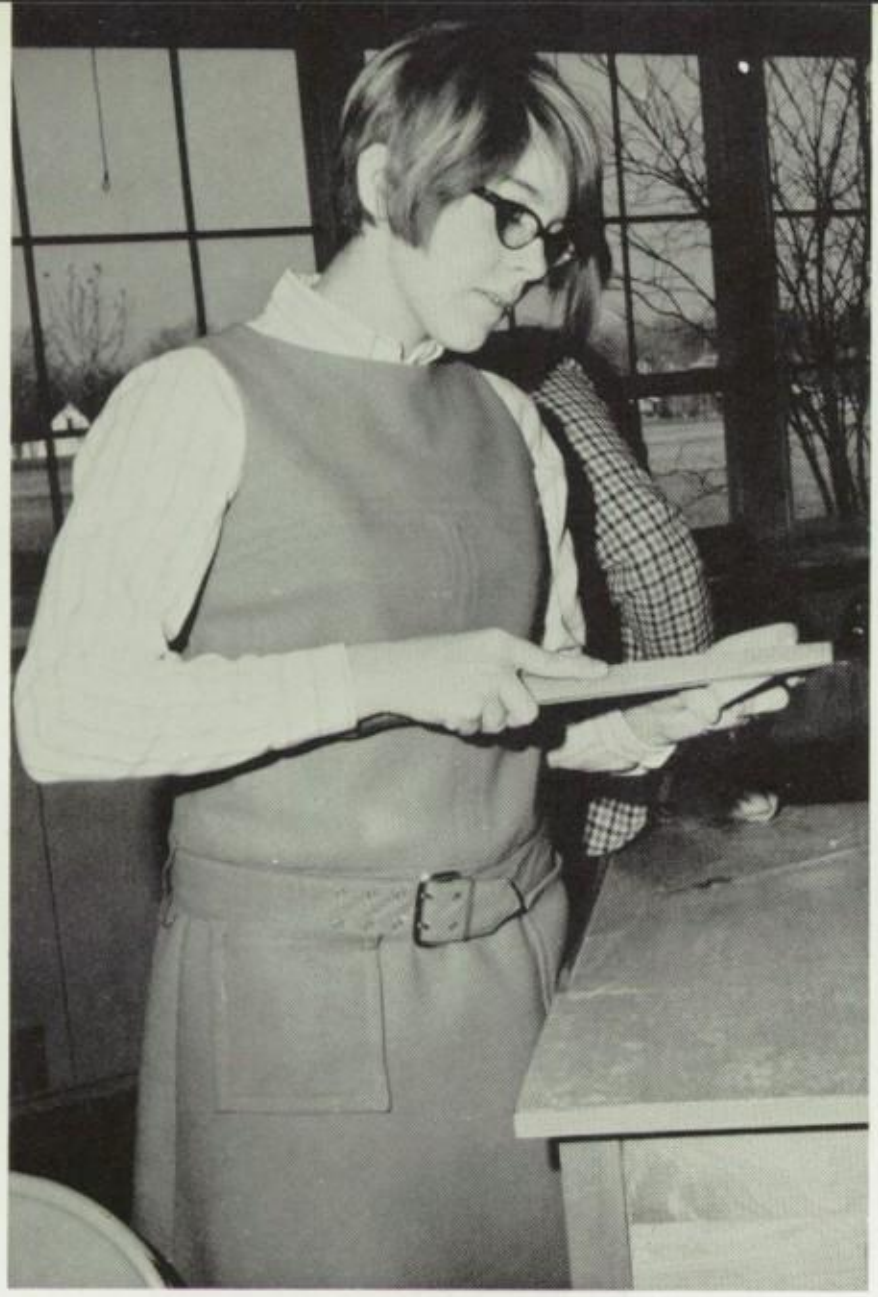


Searching for more knowledge in World History class is Alan Webster.



Kay Yates ponders over the difficult decision of who to vote for in the five political parties represented on the ballot.

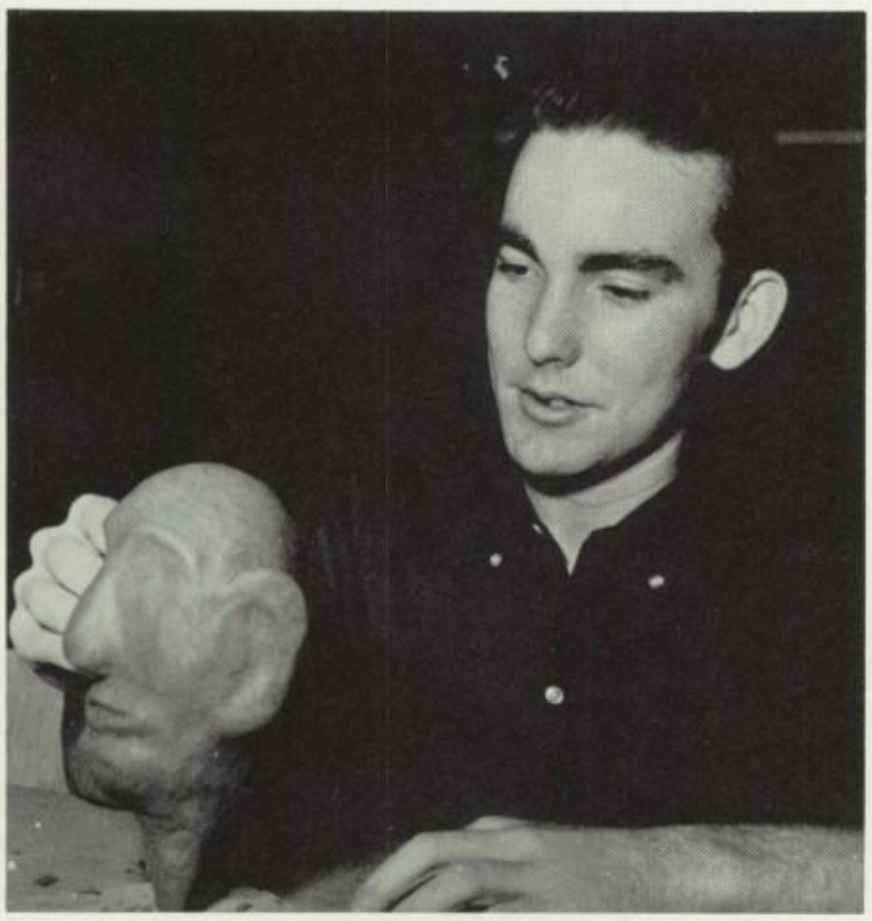
Explaining the voting procedures of the mock elections to a group of potential voters, is Peggy Hartwell.



Art class is certainly intriguing, even when the going gets tough, as Nancy Lamb demonstrates.

David Allen helps Vickie Womack add the finishing touches to her clay sculpture, during a typical afternoon in Art class.

Sustained effort produces lasting devotion, as the look on Kevin Jackson's face certainly typifies.



Art provides a creative Outlet

The Art Department is continuing its program of offering creative experiences to individuals who want to receive them. The department has not demanded that all students taking Art become highly skilled, but it is hoped that the students will develop an appreciation of the subject.

This year the Art classes gained both valuable skill and appreciation in the fields of painting, stone, clay, and wood sculpturing, and pottery making. The Art Department also sponsored AMHS's first Art Show, in which prized creations of the students were exhibited to the public.

All that is needed to take Art is a genuine interest and a sense of creativity.

Colorful band and experiences

Kathy Stafford puts her talented voice to work in Robed Choir, practicing one of the numerous choral selections.

Mr. Rossow provides the leadership as the Band strives for greater perfection during its daily practice.

captivating choir provide cultural

Performing at the Fall Concert and Open House, under the knowing eye of Mr. Hostetler, is the Robed Choir.

Performing this very impressive pre-game show for Tiger fans are the talented and pretty Tigerettes.

This group of talented singers is none other that the promising Senior Ensemble, shown at one of the numerous club gatherings at which they were invited to perform.

The combined efforts of the Band and Choirs bring an added fame to our school. Next to athletics, music is probably the most time-consuming extra-curricular activity.

First period finds the halls of AMHS decorated with lovely majorettes perfecting their routine for their next public appearance. Drowsy students in first period Study Hall are serenaded into alertness by the lively tunes of the Band. Fourth period Study Hall students are equally entertained by the talented Girls Chorus. The Robed Choir contributes their talents to the band room during sixth period.

This full schedule of music does not bring the day's practices to a halt, however. Any time after three o'clock music can be heard, whether it is a 9:30 practice of the Band on the football field or the Senior Ensemble routinely practicing on a Monday evening.

The Music Department provides cultural experiences from which all AMHS students can profit.

Where the Action Is

During the year the girls' gym classes discovered how to use good teamwork while learning rules of fair play and good sportsmanship. Some of the sports the girls learned more about were volley ball, basketball, and badminton. They also enjoyed jumping on the trampoline, tumbling, soccer, and archery.

By the end of the school year, the girls have emerged with the bloom and glow of good health, and the knowledge of good sportsmanship, which is so important in life.

Tumbling with the grace of a freshman and performing on the parallel bars with the finesses of a sophomore are only two of the challenging skills to be mastered in boys' gym class. Mixed with tumbling, the parallel bars, and kick ball, the freshmen and sophomores enjoyed basketball, volleyball, acrobatic stunt performing, and almost any other kind of sport imaginable. When weather permitted, it was outside to the football field to see who could heave a softball over fifty yards. The guys also enjoyed flag football and endurance tests to see who could run 100 yards without being flagged out.

It was downstairs to the showers for a quick moment of relaxation at the end of the hour's activities.

We wonder if the Pyramids in Egypt are this strong. How do you feel about this, boys?

One of the many skills boys learn in gym class is tumbling.

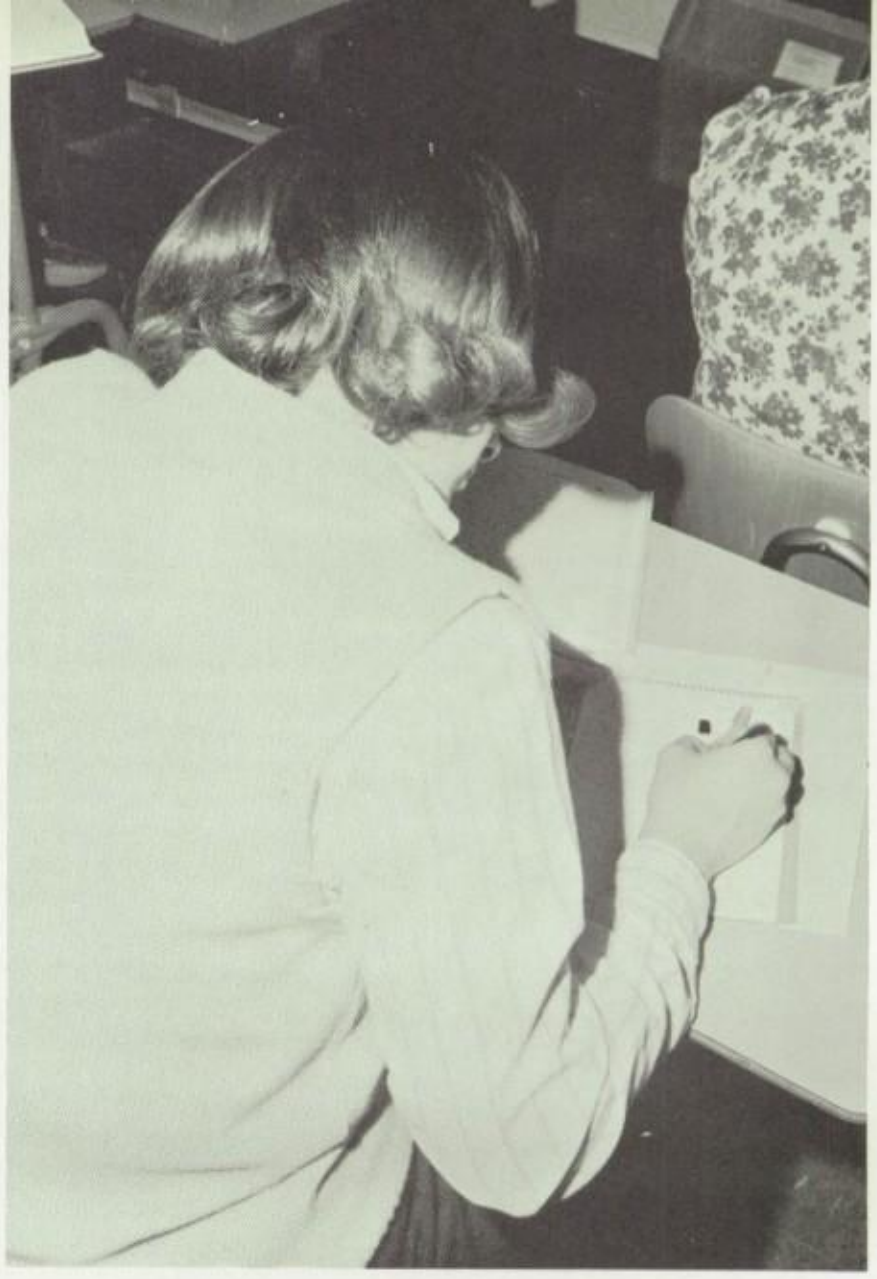
"I know I'll never make torch-bearer in the Olympics, but I'll give it a good try!" muses Martha Crowder.

Business Offers Saleable Skills

The Business department gives the student at AMHS the opportunity to develop skills and acquire general business information which will be helpful to him in dealing with the world of business, which is such an important part of his life.

Our student has a choice of twelve different subject areas, the most popular subject being typewriting, with bookkeeping coming in a close second in popularity. Other areas of special interest are shorthand, business law, and salesmanship. The newest and one of the most interesting courses is notehand, a toned-down version of shorthand, which gives college-bound students instruction in notemaking processes and procedures. It also gives them the opportunity to develop notehand skill with which to take notes rapidly and easily.

The knowledge learned in these twelve courses are invaluable, for the student can go straight into a secretarial position without need of further education with the skills he has attained in the Business department.



Taking shorthand dictation enables the business student to produce excellent secretarial skills, as Jo Williamson demonstrates in Mrs. Oberholtzer's fifth period shorthand class.

Typing is a manual skill managed only with determination and talent, and Linda Buck appears to be well on the road to a successful semester in typing class.

Tomorrow's homemakers and Designing a dream house maybe? Terry Young seems captivated by the form taking place on his drawing board.

Having a qualified instructor nearby is always helpful in gaining knowledge. Mr. Champion is shown helping Kenny Leach with the lathe in Machine Shop.

Celebrations just wouldn't be celebrations without friends . . . or food! These Senior girls and guests are all set to enjoy a delicious home-cooked meal.

breadwinners develop their skills today

Do you find yourself consistantly burning toast? Are your friends still complimenting you on your basting ability when you know your seams are the finished product? Then Home Economics is highly advisable for you to take.

Home Economics has a variety of subjects to offer. Besides the obvious foods and clothing, the girls also study home improvement, child care, marriage, and family relations.

The Industrial Arts program at AMHS offers boys instruction in developing technical skills so important in our highly industrialized world today. Courses are offered in mechanical drawing, woodworking, printing, machinery, and power and transportation. Experiences in these areas help students understand the fundamentals of the tools, materials, and processes they are dealing with.

The obvious goal of both the Home Economics and Industrial Arts Departments is the excellent preparation of students for their future roles in society.

Miss Jamie Street, Purdue representative, provides an interesting talk on Home Economics-based careers to Senior girls and Home Economics students.

"Your guess is as good as mine!" says Nadine Wittkamper to Vickie Womack.

The colorful 1969 Spectrum focused on individuality

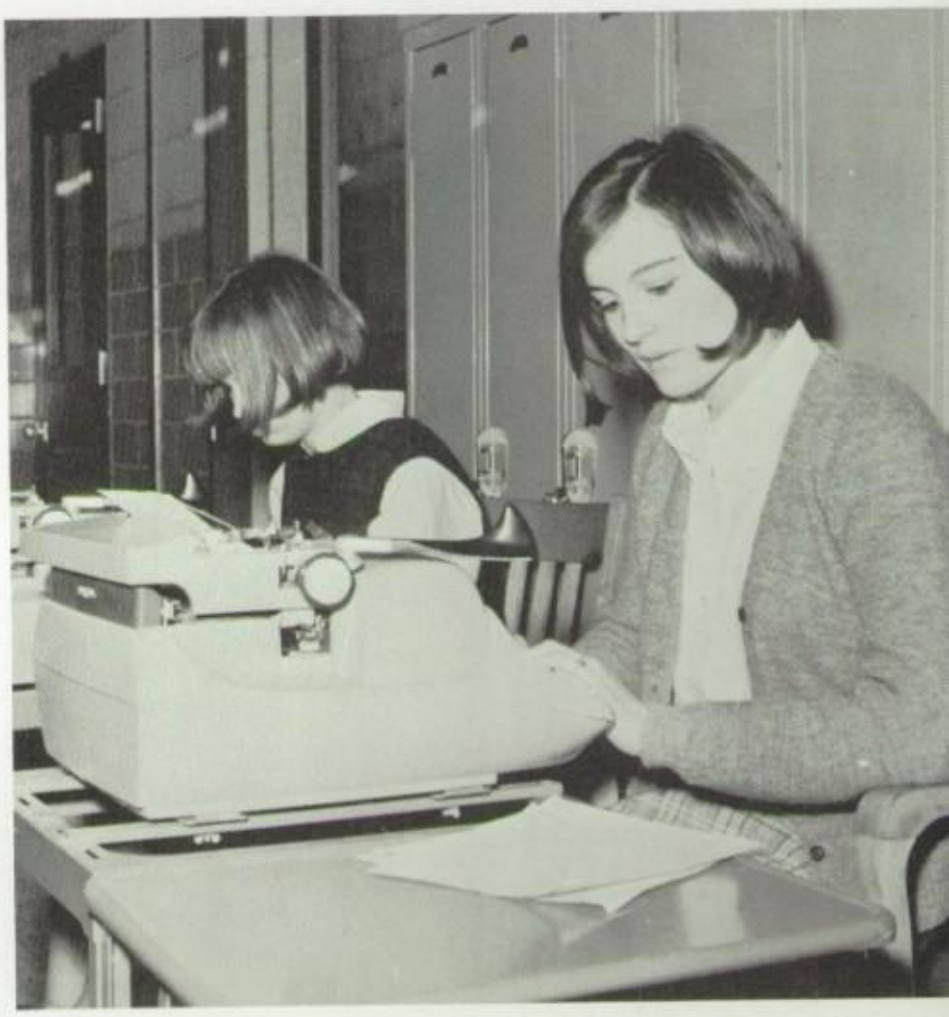
"Mr. Matthew, why can't I use that picture in that space?"

"How many times have I told you! You can't fit a horizontal picture into a vertical layout!"

That was only one of the problems the Spectrum staff members faced as they began the momentuous task of publishing the 1969 Spectrum. As the year wore on there was the missed deadline, the ads that refused to come in, the lost pictures, and the innumerable pressures and headaches that went with the job. But fortunately, yearbooks usually have happy endings. Money has a way of turning up when it is most needed, and so it was that another Spectrum was published. The staff can now sit back and enjoy its creation and be proud of its work.



Taking on the tremendous job of co-ordinating fingers for the Spectrum are Colleen Fisher and Jill Marston. Just why they are out in the hall is another question.

National Honor Society members were school leaders

The National Honor Society was composed of both junior and senior members who were chosen for membership on the basis of scholarship, leadership, character, and service. One could become a provisional member in his sophomore year and become a full member in his junior and senior year. When the class of 1969 graduated, fifteen percent of their number had become members of National Honor Society.

This year one major project of the Society was distributing and collecting money canisters for a crippled children's fund. In the spring ten percent of the junior class and five percent of the sophomore class became members at an all-school tagging ceremony.

The Society officers for 1969 were: Sharon Hobbs, president; Ardy Absher, vice president; Larilee Frazier, secretary; and Jackie Andrew, treasurer. Mrs. Colvill was the faculty advisor.

Sharon Hobbs and Jackie Andrew represented the National Honor Society by distributing cans for the Crossroads Rehabilitation Center.

Dave Hahn interprets the latest AMHS problem to members of the student council.

The purpose of the Student Council is to provide a way for students to express their opinions of bettering the school through their student representatives.

At the regularly scheduled meetings, the members are given a chance to hear the problems confronting our school and in turn give their ideas to correct them.

Under the capable supervision of the Co-Op president, Dave Hahn, the council passed helpful rules and resolutions for the student body to follow, including the new basketball ruling that students would be in their seats by the third quarter.

During the year, some of the members attended the State Student Council Convention at Madison Heights High School where they gained valuable ideas from other students.

As the government of the United States serves its people, so does the Student Council at Alexandria-Monroe, on a smaller basis.

Mu Alpha Theta minds muse math solutions

The great need for more scientists and mathematicians is being met at A.M.H.S. through its Mu Alpha Theta Club. Each year this club strives to further the opportunities representing the fields of science and mathematics.

This club is a selective organization open only to those who are Juniors and Seniors. They must have a high grade average in science and mathematics and show enthusiasm in one of those areas. This year the club is awarding a scholarship to an outstanding Senior who shows the most interest in the field of mathematics.

Club sponsor is Mr. Mercer, who also heads the mathematics department. This year's capable officers were Tom Spreen, President, Dave Hahn, Vice-President, Jackie Andrew, Secretary, Steve Wright, Treasurer.

Mu Alpha Theta questions are being expertly solved by mastermind Tom Spreen.

The Model United Nations highlighted the year for IRC

Proudly representing the International Relations Club in the Homecoming Parade are Sharon and John Menken.

Today it is almost mandatory for one to know and understand his country well. The International Relations Club has tried to give its members a broad knowledge of our country in relation to those other countries in the world. A member learns valuable information about the policies and workings of his own native United States as well as many foreign countries.

The Model United Nations, held each spring at Anderson College, gives the club members a chance to use their knowledge of other countries' policies as they represent various countries at two sessions set up in imitation of the United Nations in New York City.

Foreign Exchange Club Members made moves for money

Saturday morning finds Jim Baumgartner tending the Foreign Exchange Club's Christmas bake sale.

Foreign Exchange Club is for students interested in learning about foreign countries' customs and the ways of their people.

Last year the club raised $750 to send Sharon Hobbs to Germany for six weeks in the summer. This year the club hopes to raise enough money to bring a foreign student to A.M.H.S. for the 1969-70 year.

To raise the necessary $750, the club held a Christmas Bake Sale, Saturday, December 14. During Foreign Exchange Week money was raised by selling bonds for $1 each. The Club is also hoping for donations to reach the $750 goal.

It is hoped that other students will become interested in this club and promote its efforts so they may share the lasting friendships made through exchange students.

Latin Club studies classical language

"Latin Club just wouldn't be the same without bosom buddies," explains Rex Summa, as Tom Skroback, Mary Schmidt, and Carol Brenner look on.

This club is composed of Latin students and students interested in the past and in Roman cultures. The capable sponsor of Latin Club, Miss Beaty, along with the energetic officers, planned many enjoyable activities for the club members this past year.

Latin Club was off to a flying start with their annual Banquet being first on the agenda. The slave auction was the highlight of the evening and the next day at school, slaves were seen busily doing tasks such as cleaning lockers, and carrying books for their masters.

Later in the year, many club members attended and enjoyed the movie "Finian's Rainbow", as a club project. Several people from the Latin Club also attended the State Junior Classical League Convention in the spring.

This year was quite a busy one for the club with their projects and activities, of which all who participated enjoyed.

"Parlez vous francais? Oui," answers French Club

The French Club was organized to acquaint students with the customs of France and to give them a better understanding of other French-speaking countries.

French Club, which has doubled in size this past year, enjoyed many activities. The Homecoming car was decorated in blue, white, and red, and the back was featured a replica of the Eiffel Tower. Once again, the students learned several French songs, including Christmas carols at Christmas time. The club also enjoyed a swimming party at a member's home. Club pins were ordered by the new members and were proudly worn by all.

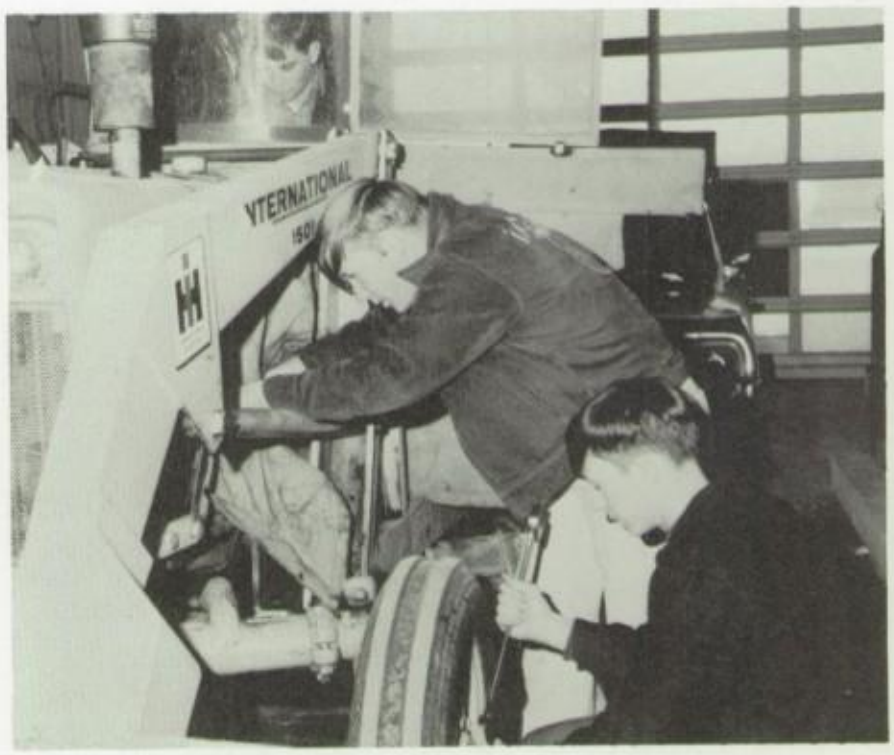
Enjoying a lively discussion at a noon-hour meeting are these members of the French Club.

Agriculture becomes a way of life

Future Farmers of America is a national organization whose primary aim is to develop agricultural leadership, cooperation, and citizenship. F.F.A. is a non-profit, non-political organization. To join F.F.A., a boy must be in vocational agriculture and between the ages of fourteen and twenty-one. Our chapter contains twenty-seven members.

The national emblem of F.F.A. is significant and meaningful in every detail. The colors are blue and gold, and the emblem is made up of five symbols. The owl is symbolic of wisdom and knowledge, the plow is the symbol of labor and tillage; the rising sun is emblematic of progress and cooperation; the cross of corn represents common agriculture interests; and the eagle is indicative of the national scope of the organization.

Our chapter, of which Mr. Morehead is sponsor, planned many trips and parties during the year. One trip was made to Chicago for the International Livestock Show. This year F.F.A. entered their first float for the Homecoming parade, with Linda Walker representing the chapter as F.F.A. Sweetheart.



These F.F.A. boys, Gary Hartwell, Harry Coy, and Tim Harmon gain valuable knowledge about farm machinery while investigating an International tractor for difficulties.

The future is in good hands

Future Homemakers of America is a national organization for high school girls interested in Home Economics. Their over-all goal is to help individuals improve personal, family, and community living. They strive to help each family member recognize his abilities and strive for his full development.

This year, as in the past, F.H.A. has continued to be one of the most active organizations in the school. The year began with a Halloween party at one of the member's homes. During the year members of the club served as nurses' aide volunteers to the Turtle Creek Convalescent Center, and participated in state F.H.A. projects and district events, not to mention numerous pizza parties in the evenings.

Through their many projects and close association, the Future Homemakers of America have gained the knowledge of give-and-take living.

Jenny Rector and Nancy Lamb enjoy the fundamentals of sewing.

Patty Arnett's new Keds prove to be efficient in handling such a large and overpowering force as a cage ball.

Representing the sports-minded girls of AMHS is the Girl's Athletic Association. The purpose of the club is to promote athletics and to teach the value of good sportsmanship. This year's officers were: President, Pat Arnett; Vice-President, Pat Cox; Secretary-Treasurer, Paula Hines. Under the guidance of Mrs. Coleman the girls kept themselves active and physically fit.

The meetings were held each Thursday after school. During that time the girls practiced their skills at sports such as volleyball, acrobatics, basketball, and tumbling. In this way each girl acquired a little knowledge of the sorrow of defeat and the glory of success.

Lively sports activists have an enjoyable year

Cheerleader's Club cultivates school spirit

Hard at work on a victory hoop for the next home basketball game against Oak Hill are Cheerleaders' Club members Linda Eagle and Missy Miller.

"We've got S-P-I-R-I-T," is the driving thought that penetrates the enthusiastic minds of the fifty members of the Cheerleaders' Club. Throughout the year this organization aroused school spirit with various activities, which was their contribution to all phases of athletic life. Posters, signs, window painting, and skits during pep sessions were of great value to the boys who take part in sports. The club also raised the money to help send the Varsity cheerleaders to Smith-Walbridge Cheerleading Camp. This past year, Mrs. Dunlap was the club sponsor, Jenny Kane served as President, with Missy Miller as Vice-President, Jeralee Cuneo as Secretary and Jill Marston as Treasurer.

It is certainly an honor for AMHS to recognize the Cheerleaders' Club, for it builds pride and enthusiasm in the school.

Varsity A Club united our athletes

Adorning the gym for the arrival of basketball season just couldn't be the Varsity A Club's cup of tea . . . or could it?

An honorary organization consisting of boys who have won a varsity letter in an athletic event is the Varsity "A" Club. Although it exists mainly as an honorary body, the "A" Club creates fellowship and spirit among the athletes who belong to it.

This year the "A" Club added much to the spirit of home basketball games as they sat at the side of the Cheerblock in their crimson "A" sweaters. Many times during the basketball season they formed an arch for the players to emerge.

Another project by the club this year was the cleaning and restoring of the banners won by previous athletic teams of A.M.H.S.

Usually, for the finale of the club year, a camping expedition to a state park is planned to honor the athletes.

Embers of spirit smouldered in Cheerblock

With such a large group of enthusiastic girls, the mighty Tigers could truly say that this year the Cheerblock backed them all the way. The feeling of spirit was zealously shown through various routines, songs, and chants. Within the hearts of these girls burned a do-or-die spirit and a fiery desire for victory.

The one-hundred girls were guided and sponsored by Mrs. Dunlap and Mrs. Bunner. They kept the girls on their toes and helped the cheering section really sound great. The officers this year were: Kathy Skroback, President; Teresa Benfield, Vice-President; Jill Marston, Secretary; Barbara Rinker, Treasurer.

This year's Tiger mascot was ably personified by Toni LeRoy. With her many actions, Toni brought smiles to the faces of the crowd and encouraged the fans to yell louder.

No matter what the situation, whether exciting or heart-breaking, the fans could count on the Cheerblock to back the Tigers all the way.

Really, girls, let's all do it together!

Youth Red Cross provides a helping hand

The Youth Red Cross of Alexandria consists of high school students who are willing to lend a helping hand when needed. The two sponsors, Mr. Lindsey and Mr. Ice, have aided greatly this year. The club officers this year are Bonnie Hand, President, Carol Brenner, Vice President, Dianne Brenner, Secretary, and Pam Johnson, Treasurer.

This year the Red Cross went to Marion Veterans Hospital, New Castle State Epileptic Hospital, and Bradford's Nursing Home. They went there to entertain the patients in the form of playing games, having a sing-a-long, and occasionally having a magic show put on by Steve Heifner, one of the Youth Red Cross Volunteers.

Each year the Red Cross has three or four National Conventions. This year's convention was in Atlanta, Georgia to which one of our local members attended with all expenses paid. This year the Youth Red Cross also attended the state convention at Ball State University.

Drama Club provides creative enjoyment

Everyone at some time or another has experienced jumpy, jittery feelings known as butterflies. The Drama Club gives each of its members a chance to feel these imaginary objects floating around inside before a production. The Club is composed of members who want to freely express themselves to others. It is an opportunity to communicate with people and to let them see, know, and understand.

This year the first club production was "A Handful of Rainbows". During the spring another dramatic production was also presented. Making his debut along with many members of the four classes was the club's successful director, Mr. Gordon. Future plans for the Drama Club include a possible tour as a vaudeville company throughout the community. Entertainment also includes tears as well as laughter, and the Drama Club has found satisfaction in the ability to stir these emotions.

Posing as "Meg", Connie Sherwood practices her part diligently for the play, "A Handful of Rainbows."

Through the halls during fourth or sixth periods, one can hear floating notes of music being sung by one of Alexandria's outstanding choral groups. Under the direction of Mr. Ernest Hostetler, the Robed Choir, Senior Ensemble, and Girl's Chorus provide many hours of listening enjoyment for the community.

During the school year, the three groups together perform a fall concert, pop concert, Thanksgiving and Christmas programs, and add a special touch by contributing to Alexandria's annual Crescendo Varieties. The choirs also attend the state and county choral festivals and enter solo and group competition at Ball State University each year.

In the usual tradition, the Senior Ensemble busily performed for many clubs and gatherings throughout the year by virtue of receiving three superior ratings at Ball State in January, they competed in state-wide competition at Indianapolis where they received an excellent rating. The girls appeared in mint green dresses with matching jackets, while the boys added depth to the group with their forst green blazers.

year long

The Alexandria-Monroe Marching Tiger Band, under the direction and excellent leadership of Everett Rossow, has proved itself an outstanding organization.

The past summer, one could have seen the band and majorettes practicing for State Fair Band Day competition on the high school football field. After receiving the honored eighth place, the band then retired to the anxiously awaited football season. The Tigerettes performed many entertaining half-time shows while the Tiger Band played on.

The Homecoming award-winning club car went to the Tiger Band for their outstanding car finished in white and blue, which featured the trophy won at the State Fair.

Traveling to Purdue for a football half-time show was certainly an exciting experience for the band, as was the Christmas parade, winter concert, and the long-awaited Crescendo-Varieties.

Adding to the noise and bustle of Homecoming Parade was the pep band.

Sports and athletic competition can greatly influence a person as to his future, and football is no exception.

Coaches, managers, players, and even the fans received benefit from the long hours of work put in by the team. Each drop of sweat and each gasp for breath was evidence of the Tigers' desire to grind on to victory.

Congratulations to the gridiron team for a season well played.

The 1968 basketball season at Alexandria-Monroe High School was anticipated with great expectancy. After last years' team and its great success, the Tiger rooters wondered if Coach John McFarren's crew could accomplish a winning season with such a great loss of material.

With spirits high, the Tiger netters went through a vigorous pre-season conditioning to prepare their minds and bodies for the trying season that lay ahead. The lack of size and good outside shooting proved to be important factors which hampered the Tigers from a successful season.

In any athletic event there must be a winner and a loser. The Tiger netters showed that in either case, they could maintain the poise and dignity of a team plus the individual esteem of each player, which is the basis of sportsmanship.

It is this sportsmanship that will make better men of these boys as they go out into a world where life is based on giving and taking. With this sportsmanship the boys learn how to receive. With this in mind, the ex-ball players will blossom into the real citizens that AMHS has tried to make them.

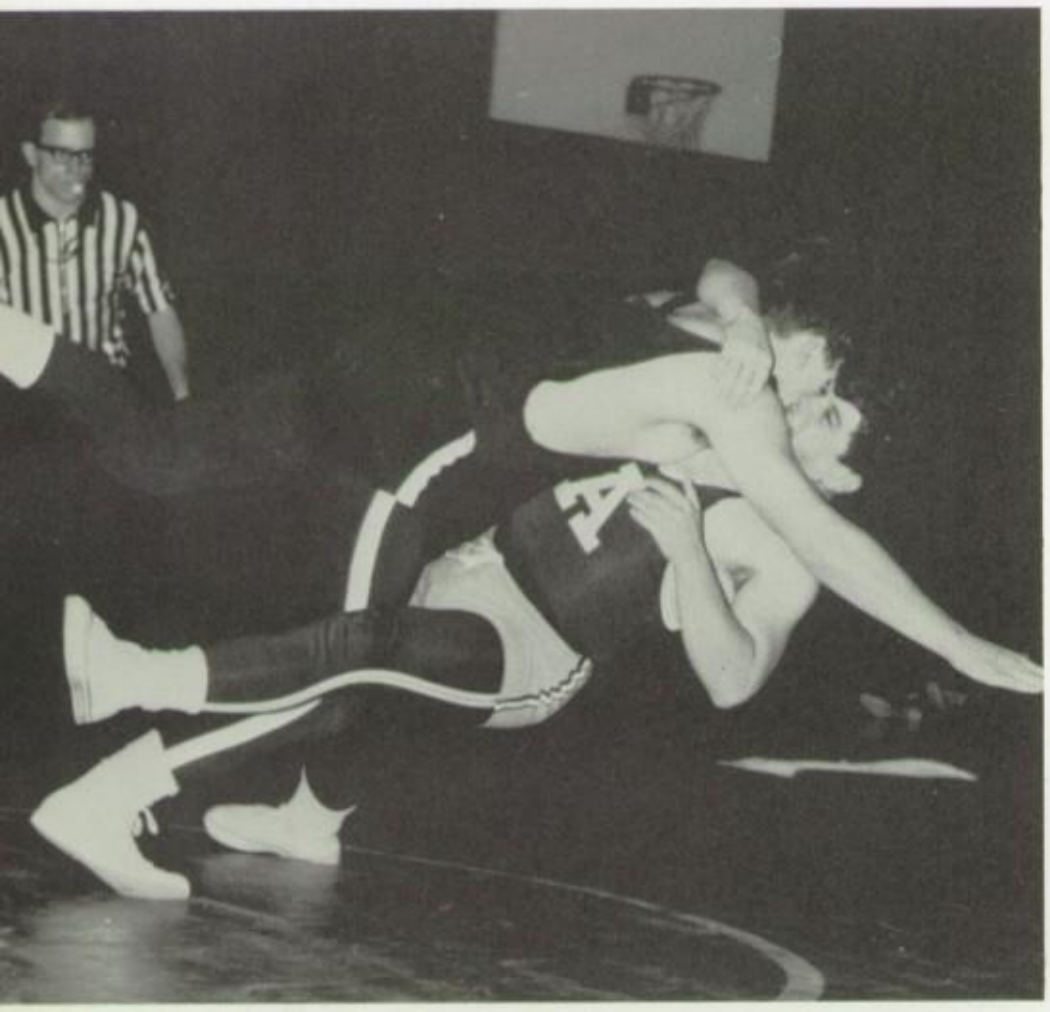
Tiger matmen mix muscle with mayhem

WRESTLING TEAM: Front Row—J. Lewis, S. Maddox, D. Walker, M. Thompson, J. Brown, T. Rogers, R. Chambers. Row Two—J. Baumgartner, G. Buis, G. Hartwell, H. Ellis, R. Gillespie, T. Thompson. Row Three—Manager R. Brewer, Coach Puckett, R. Summa, G. Meador, A. Webster, T. Pierce, B. Weasel, Manager J. Holford.



Ellis down! It looks as though Phil Ellis could be having his trouble as the sophomore grappler is on the bottom of the action.

In the third year of competition, under the new tutorship of Coach Frank Puckett, the Tiger matmen faced a rebuilding year. The wrestling team was built mainly of sophomores and juniors.

This year the wrestlers pulled off four wins against eight defeats, while taking a respectable fourth place at the Central Indiana Conference Wrestling Meet, beating Wabash and Huntington.

Coach Puckett has already begun planning for a first-place rating in CIC competition next year and has his matmen training for that time.

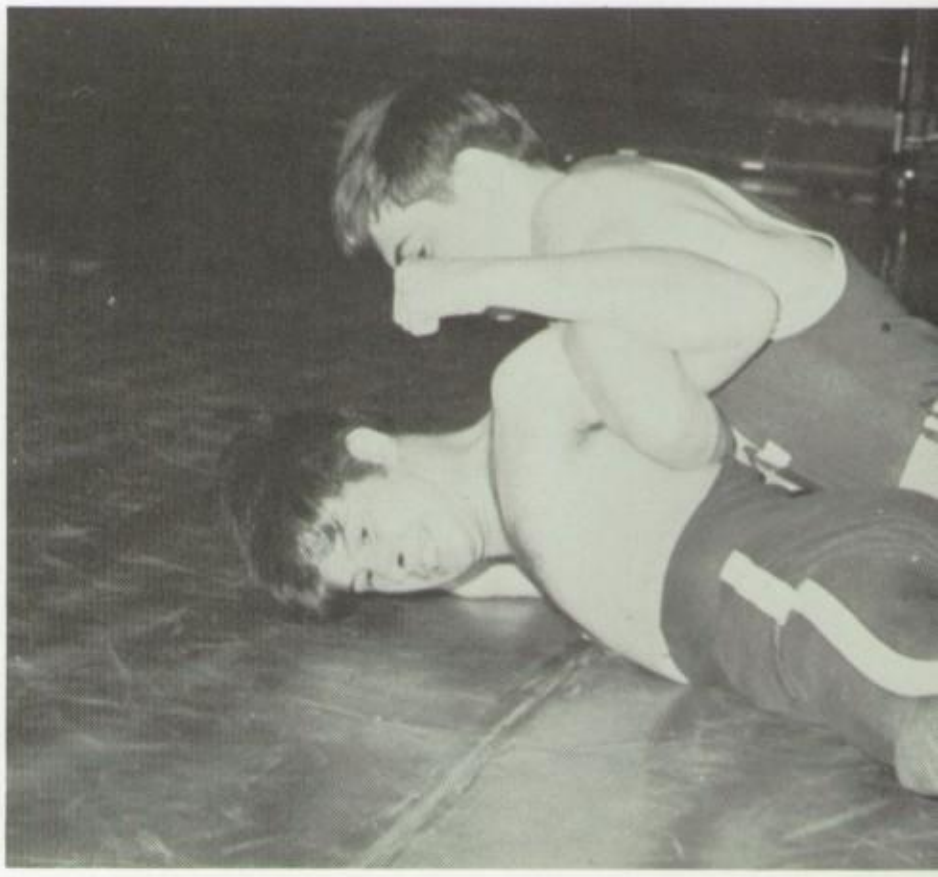
Things appear to be a little glum for our wrestling team as evidenced by these Tiger matmen.

Terry Pierce seems to find his opponent's head the weakest spot as he tries to reach behind for a hold.

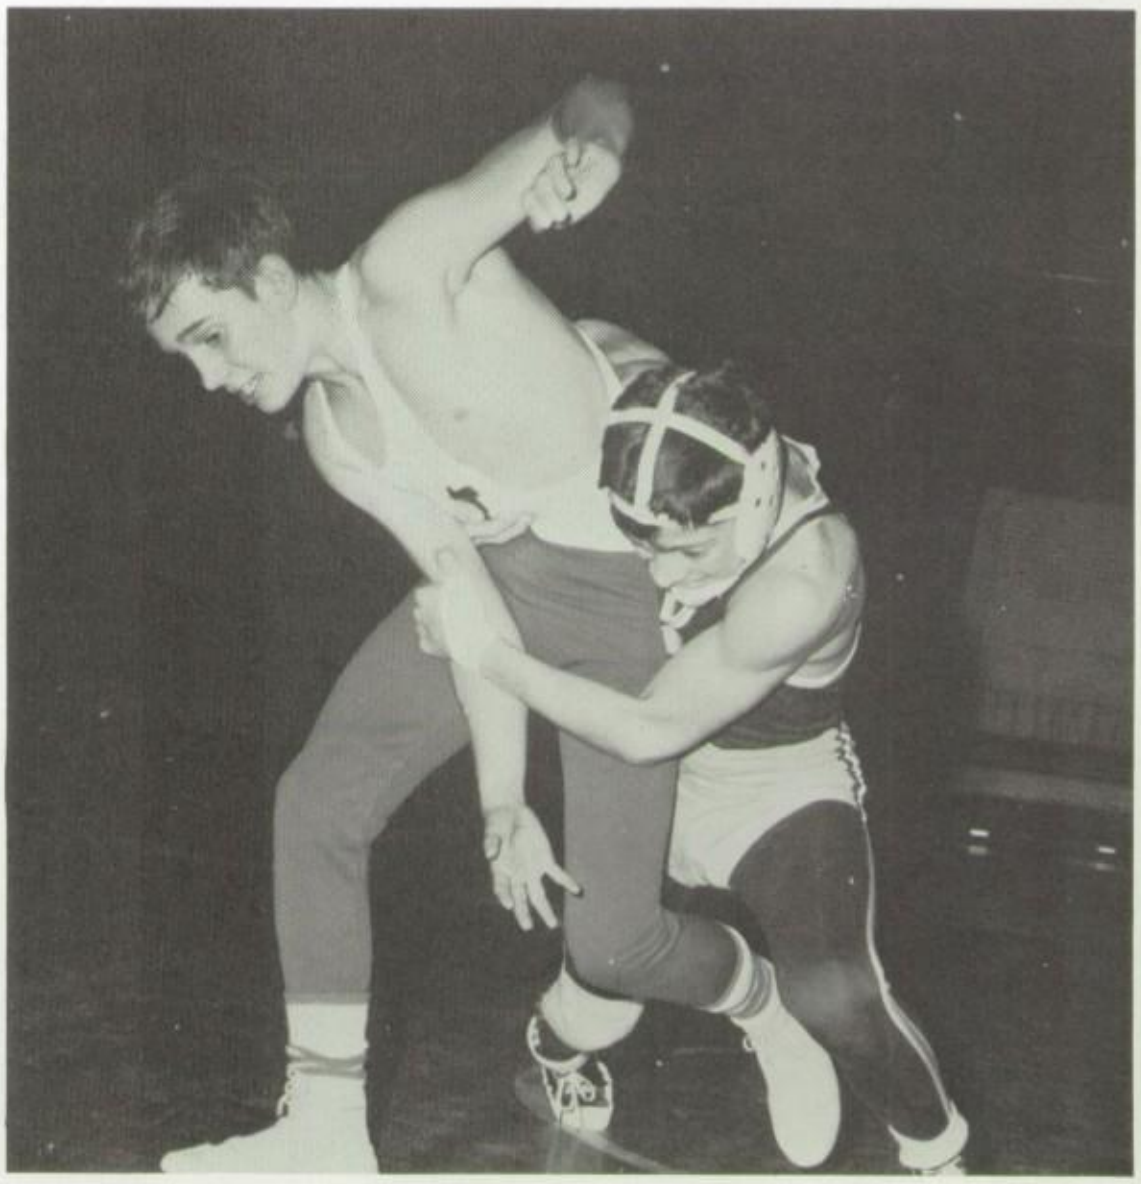
Tiger grappler Alan Webster has the situation well in hand as he puts his man to the mat.

Matmen's agility provided victories

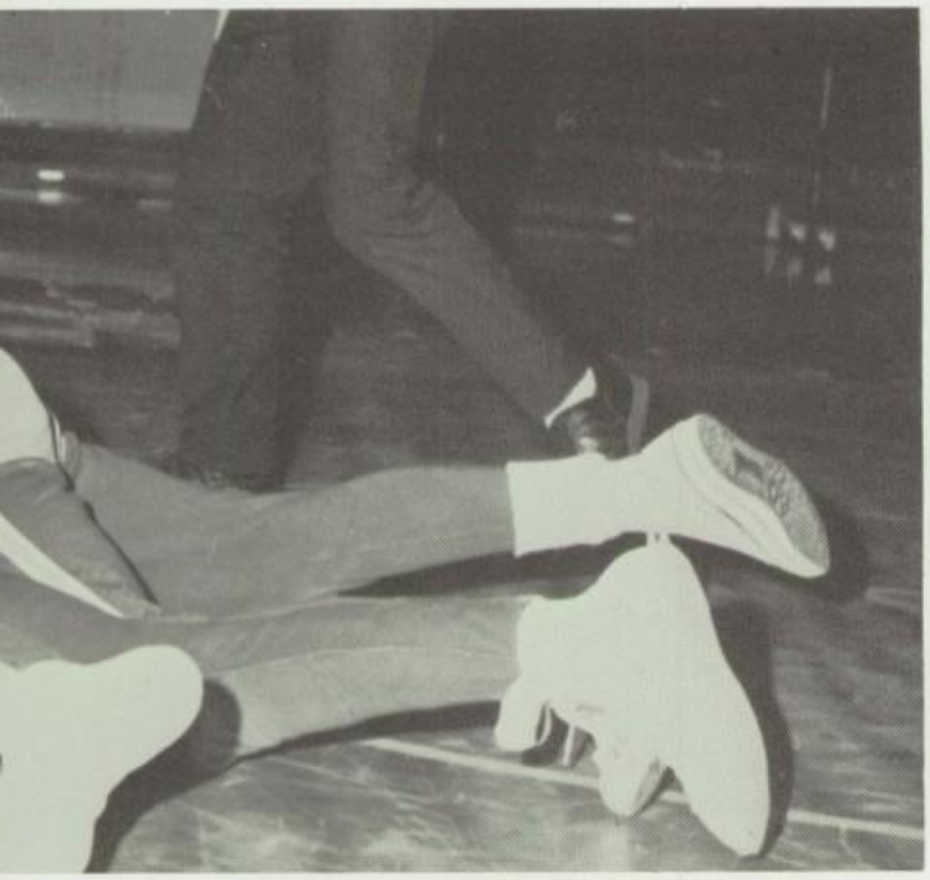
The guillotine is foiled!

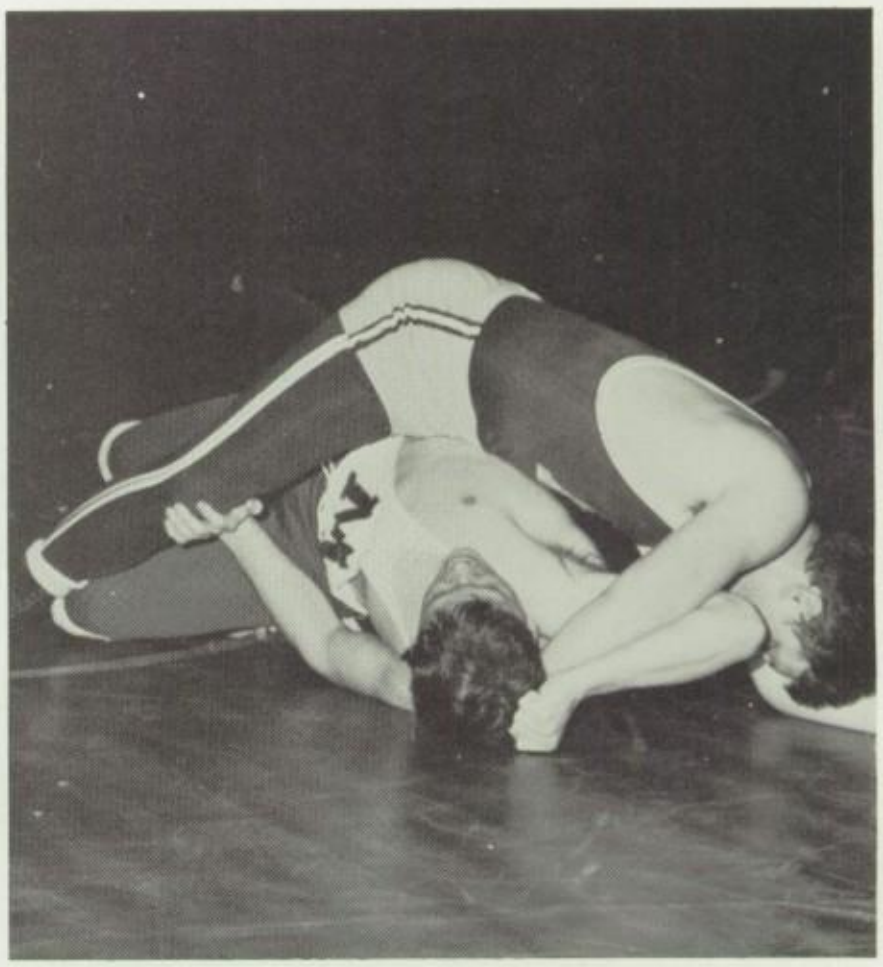


Gary Hartwell rolls over another pin victim.



Mike Thompson performs a double-leg takedown.





Herb Ellis, working for a pin, seems to be getting the job done.

Bob Weasel struggles valiantly to out-maneuver his able opponent.

Cindermen combine individual talents for Distance, speed, and form are vital in good broad-jumping as Mike Mitchell justly shows.

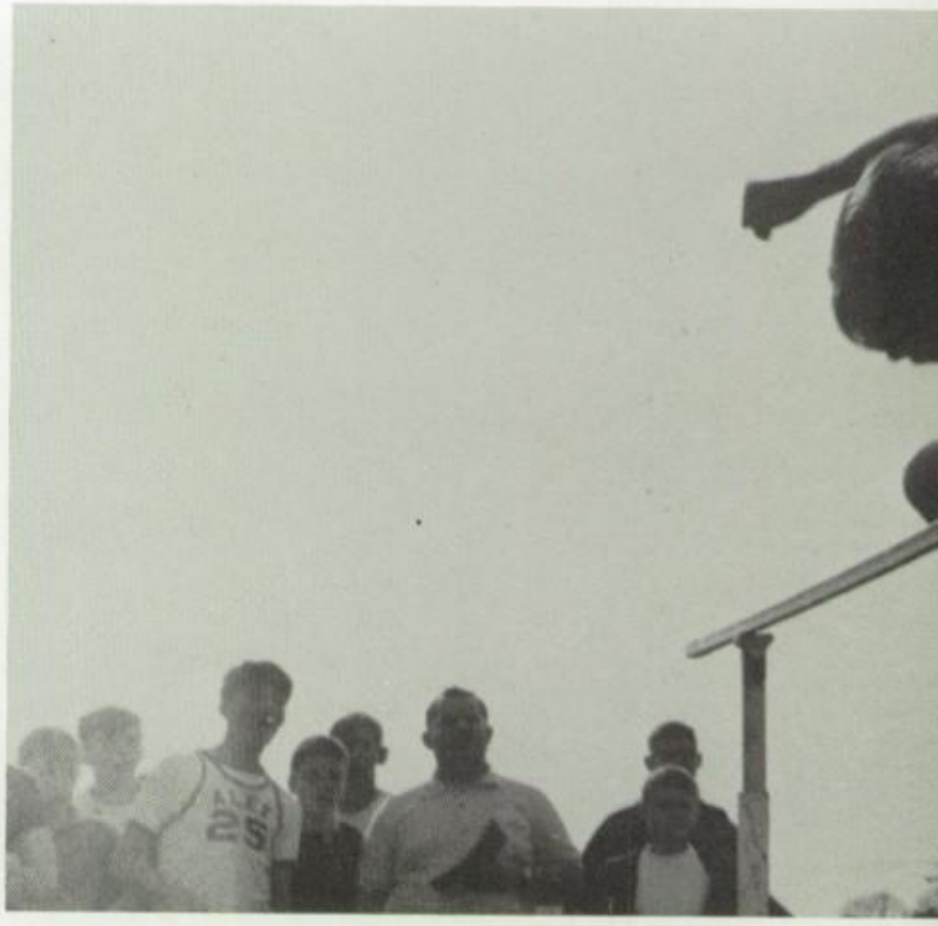
"Only a few more steps, and victory!" thinks Terry Thompson as he races toward the finish line.



With form and grace a high jumper rolls over the bar.

Has anyone ever equalled the feeling that comes from crossing the finish line out in front of the group, or of being able to throw the shot-putt farther than the other guy?

This feeling has many sources of origination as the Alexandria-Monroe High School track squad of 1968 discovered. This feeling comes from a sense of accomplishment that stems from hard work, discipline, and rigorous training.

Each boy gained a personal satisfaction in knowing that he was part of a team and that he had contributed to the betterment of the team. When a boy learns that working for and with others is better than working for himself, then he becomes the man that athletic program at AMHS was designed to create.

team effort

Louie Shafer dramatically motions for the baton as he sets out on the last leg of the mile relay.

That feeling of exhilaration hits Dave Benson as he crosses the finish line out in front.

That eighth of an inch was missing as this cinderman crosses the bar.

Individual excellence brings recognition to

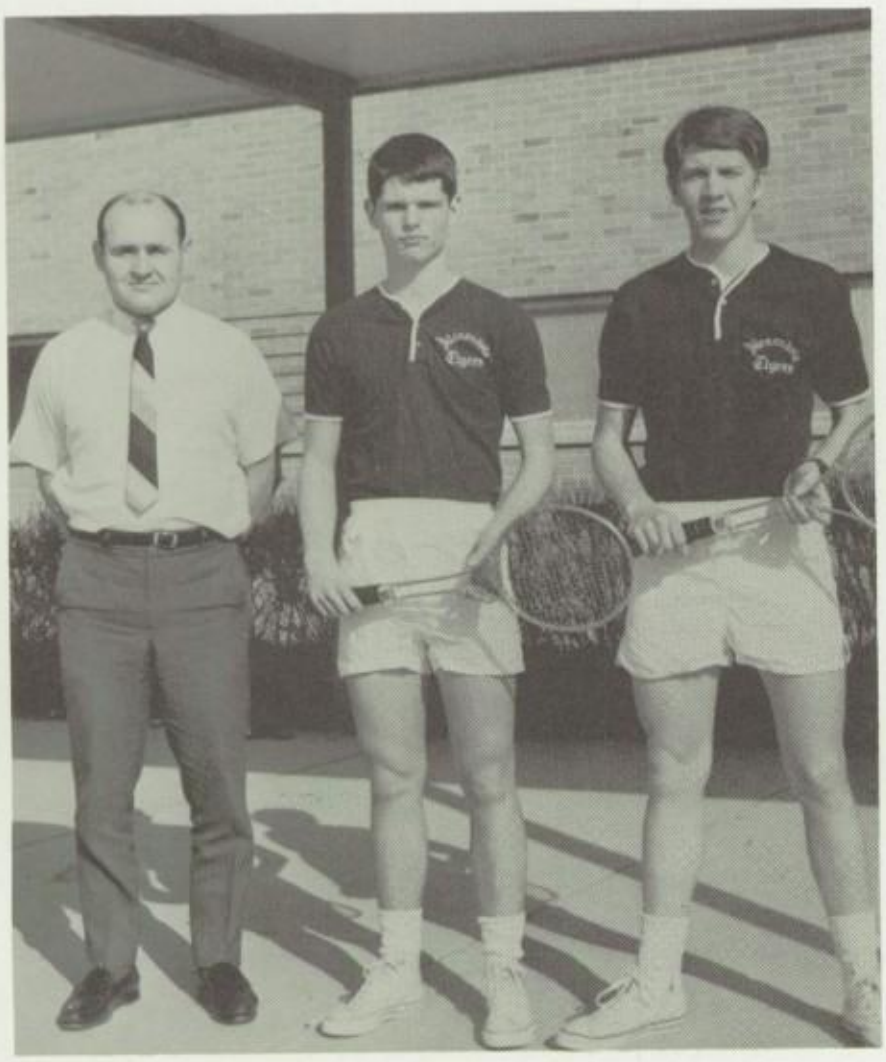
Teams



TENNIS TEAM REPRESENTATIVES: Coach Cooper, Rick Hott, Dave Holmes

With just two seniors using the racket, the 1968 season looked as though it would be a re-building one for the tennis team. Senior Jeff Fisher was the squad's number one man with freshman Rick Hott holding down the number two position. Junior Phil Follis was the number three man with senior Randy VanErman and juniors Don Sloan, Dave Nelson, and Dave Holmes alternating at the number four and five positions. The number two doubles team was usually a Follis-Sloan combination as they proved to be the most effective. With three returning lettermen, the '69 season should prove to be an interesting one.

The Alexandria-Monroe golf team suffered and unsuccessful year as far as the win-loss record shows, winning no matches during the season. The reason for the record was given as a lack of a much needed golf course near the school. Things should improve in 1969 when the Yule Golf Course will be the home of the Tiger golfers.

Seeing the beauty of the countryside that many of us fail to see was the cross country team of 1968. Through the long hours of grueling conditioning, the harriers strove for individual perfection plus team effort.

Dan Gosnell sets his sights on a long drive down the fairway.

Vivacious cheerleaders enhance spirit

TIGER MASCOT: Toni Leroy

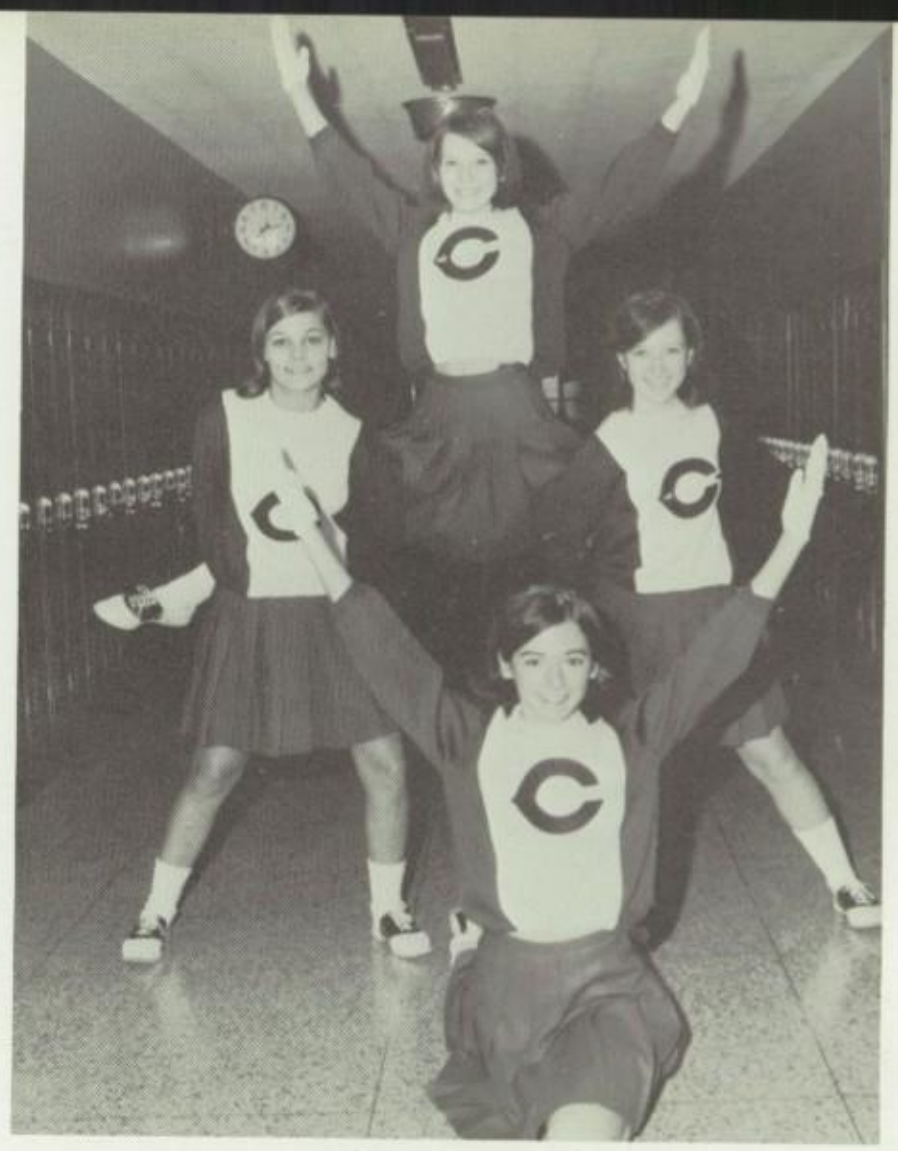
The Tiger cheerblock responds to a basket.

VARSITY CHEERLEADERS: Missy Miller, Jenny Kane, Shirley Cooper, Kathy Knotts.

School spirit is essential in any school. It not only strengthens the athletic program but also develops pride for the school.

One of the most easily recognizable examples of spirit is found in the cheerleaders of AMHS. These loyal boosters have urged on the Tigers through good times as well as bad, regardless of the outcome. Also putting much time and effort to the sports cause has been the Tiger Cheerblock in their flashy, red ponchos. Meeting often in after-school hours and evenings, the Cheerblock collaborated with the Band to add much to the atmosphere at home basketball games. Our Tiger Mascot proved invaluable in culturing spirit and enthusiasm with her never-say-die attitude.

So, even though official sports for girls at AMHS is something virtually something unheard of, girls do play an important piece in the athletic puzzle.



FRESHMEN CHEERLEADERS: Betty Ryan, Molly Marston, Neva Humphrey, Janet Reed

B-TEAM CHEERLEADERS: Sue Stevens, Jeralee Cuneo, Nancilee Jones, Tonya Warner.

Why should there not be a patient confidence in the ultimate justice of the people? Is there any better or equal hope in the world?

Seniors reach ultimate pinnacle of high

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS: Ardy Absher, Vice-President; Jenny Kane, Secretary; Kathy Skroback, Treasurer, and Mike Owens, President.

This was our year . . . the year that finally came. The year an earthquake hit Indiana, the year of the 13-11 basketball game, the year of three first place ratings in competition by the Ensemble, the year the roof was finally fixed. These are among the things we remember our senior year by. We are proud to be part of them.

Looking over the other three years of our high school education we remember also . . . Our experience in acting such plays as "Romeo and Juliet" our freshman year . . . the fashion trends we set with our dark socks and Cordovan loafers . . . attacks by the Tiger's Tale . . . rebuilding our 1967 class float in time to win the prize . . . parties. We have had good times together as a class, and it will not be easy to forget them.

We leave behind four long years of painful learning and developing. Making mistakes has not been easy, but the vast knowledge we have attained is well worth it.

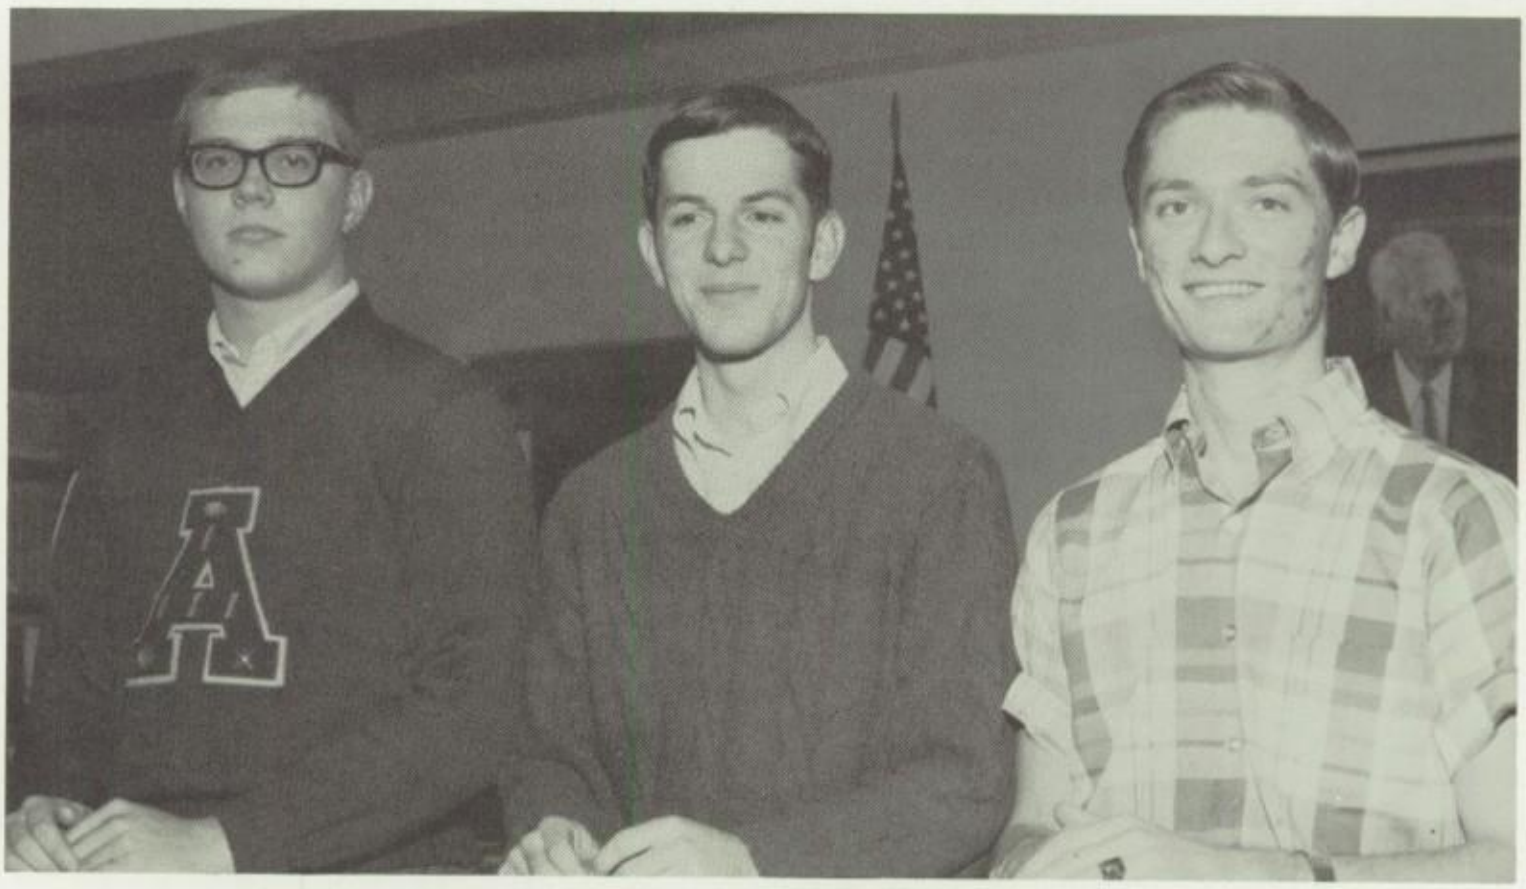
school achievement

GIRLS' STATE REPRESENTATIVES: Ardy Absher and Linsey Braun

Hoosier Girls' and Boys' State are efforts on the part of the American Legion Auxiliary and American Legion to bring Indiana youth knowledge of the basic principles of Indiana government through actual practice and control. They are practical applications of Americanism and good citizenship. Both programs are non-partisan, non-political attempts to teach the youth of Indiana a love of God and Country.

Girls' and Boys' States are mythical states formed by teenagers who have finished their junior year in high school. The representatives come together from every part of Indiana and are given the opportunity to learn the duties, privileges, rights, and responsibilities of American citizenship.

AMHS was proud to send as its representatives to 1968 Hoosier Girls' State June 23 to June 30, Ardy Absher and Linsey Braun. Distinguishing the high school by attending the June 8th to June 15th convocation of 1968 Hoosier Boys' State were Dave Hahn, Tom Spreen, and Richard Thompson.



BOYS' STATE REPRESENTATIVES: Dave Hahn, Tom Spreen and Richard Thompson.

Unique class rings further individualize

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS: Bill Champion, Vice President; Peggy Crouch, President; Dallas Heartbarger, Treasurer; Linda Starr, Secretary.

The Junior year is one of facing the future and preparing for it.

A new sense of pride was instilled in Junior class members upon the arrival of their unusual and original class rings. The acquisition of class rings at the first of the school year seemed to symbolize the beginning of a new era—that of being an upper classman.

Class interest was intensified with the approach of Homecoming weekend. The Juniors worked industriously producing a beautiful parade car which was graced by Princess Marsha Johnson. Time found the Juniors raising money and combining effort and ideas to sponsor a fondly remembered prom.

As always, the Junior class was well represented in school by individuals participating in all areas of academic and extra-curricular activities.

Sidewalk pie-throwing and green

The spirited class of 71 under capable leadership showed their initiative by designing an original pie throwing booth for Sidewalk Days. Their next worth-while project was creating the 1968 award-winning Homecoming float, graciously adorned by lovely Sophomore Princess, Brynda Eagle. The football player atop a rich green field signified the spirit of our own Alex Tigers.

Along with the variety and excitement of extra-curricular activities came hard work. All Sophomores became adjusted to this as they diligently studied Geometry and World History.

A symbol of the happy-go-lucky Sophomore class were their green sweaters. One and all wore his with pride, for it was a mark of distinction among proud class members.

So, as ambitious Sophomores, they turned their thoughts toward the ever-promising future, but as they left they knew that the bright new friendships and fond memories shared will never be forgotten.

Freshmen were largest class ever to enter AMHS

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICERS: Judy Schleeter, Secretary; Kathy Brown, Vice-President; Terry Beemer, Treasurer; and Barry Noffze, President.

Entering AMHS for their first year, the class of 1972 began a new phase of their education. Among the first big steps Freshmen class members took in becoming acquainted were the election of class officers, mastering the technique of navigating populous halls, and endless preparation for years of ever-increasing schoolwork.

Homecoming activities personified class unity as Freshmen banded together to produce their first float. A large tiger with a crown and regal robe held reign over the red and white car, adorned by Freshmen Princess Kathy Clark.

Personal ideas and ideals became evident as enthusiastic Freshmen became involved in various activities and organizations.

With the end of the year the class of '72 looked forward to three successful years as upperclassmen in one of the finest classes ever to enter AMHS.

CAFETERIA HELP: Front—R. Franklin, K. Brandenburg, J. Moore. Back—L. Smith, T. Thompson, M. Cox.

Some of the most important people in our school, who are usually given the least amount of credit, are the employees of the school.

Going through the lunchline at noon means receiving at least five warm greetings. On holidays and weeks of special sports happenings, students are not surprised to see the kitchen adorned with valentines, skeletons, and Christmas trees; not to mention Sectional week when the cooks set out to make the kitchen one huge mass of red and gold banners. The witty little sayings and bits of news that often appear at the bottom of the absentee slips are not put there by mistake; someone cared enough to make the day a little brighter. A day doesn't pass when the janitors of AMHS are present to lend a knowing ear to a particular problem.

These "little" things done by people behind the scenes help make our school life; without them something would be missing.

The indispensible ones

50 years ago Indiana was a great place to get a start.

It still is.

We were pretty young ourselves when we joined General Motors. But look at us now. We're the world's largest producer of automotive electrical equipment, making everything from generators for cars to batteries for missiles.

Indiana was a great starting place for us, it'll be a great starting place for you. Because here at Delco-Remy we need people like you. Young people trained and anxious to meet the many challenges of transportation.

If science, engineering or research interests you, dig in now. Study hard. Prepare for a career.

Then look us up. Right after college. Here in Anderson, Indiana.

LIFE

Let me but live my life from year to year,
With forward face and unreluctant soul;
Not hurrying to, nor turning from, the goal;
Not mourning for the things that disappear
In the dim past, nor holding back in fear
From what the future veils; but with a whole
And happy heart, that pays its toll
To Youth and Age, and travels on with cheer.

So let the way wind up the hill or down,
O'er rough or smooth, the journey will be joy;
Still seeking what I sought when but a boy,
New friendship, high adventure, and a crown,
My heart will keep the courage of the quest,
And hope the road's last turn will be the best.
